

Attractive Porch Is Asset To Home

"We have had various kinds of home improvement contests for kitchens, living rooms, and general home beautification, but a porch improvement contest is something new.

"Now, home demonstration club women have decided that something must be done about the porch of the average farm home," said Gertrude Bundy, Wayne county home agent of the state college extension service.

"As I drove over the state this spring attending district federation of home demonstration club meetings, I noticed many improvements in the porches of country homes."

New porch furniture has been added in places. Old furniture has been repainted, and made more comfortable. Porch floors have been repaired and painted.

Porches can be made so comfortable and attractive, Miss Bundy said, that she hates to see new homes being built without them. They lend charm to a home, especially to a country home, and they are useful, too.

To make a porch more attractive, one should avoid drab colors such as tans, buffs, and grays. On the other hand, a vivid orange is undesirable as it clashes with nature. Avoid yellow green. Use shutter green for dark furniture. Soft greens and "off white" are pleasant colors.

Announces Three New Extension Bulletins

The use of auxins in rooting plant cuttings is explained in a new circular published by the state college extension service for distribution to North Carolina farmers.

Soaking the cuttings in indolebutyric acid, known as an auxin, is a big help in propagating plants, as the acid causes cutting to put out more and better roots at a faster rate.

This publication, extension circular No. 221, "Use of Organic Acid in Rooting Cuttings," prepared by J. G. Weaver, assistant horticulturist, with the help of C. F. Williams, associate horticulturist, may be obtained upon request.

The publication of two other new bulletins by the extension service has also been announced.

Dr. Luther Shaw, extension plant pathologist, has explained the need for treating cotton seed to control damping off disease, and shown how the treatment should be administered.

The explanation is contained in extension folder No. 39, "Why and How to Treat Cotton Seed."

Extension circular No. 222, "Terracing to Reduce Erosion," was prepared by Davis S. Weaver, head of the department agricultural engineering, and H. M. Ellis, extension agricultural engineer.

It points out various methods of constructing terraces on different slopes and soil types, and illustrates the use of light V-drags and heavy terracing equipment.

These publications may be obtained by writing the agricultural editor at State college, Raleigh.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.
