LOUIS KNOCKS SCHMELING OUT

Quickest Knockout Ever Known In Battle Of Heavyweights

Joe Louis, the 24-year-old colored boy from Alabama, made pugilistic history at the Yankee Stadium in New York Wednesday night, when he knocked out the German, Max Schmeling, in two minutes and four seconds, and kept the boxing championship of the world in the United States.

Joe Louis bested Jack Dempsey's record, made at the Polo grounds in New York in September, 1923, when Dempsey flattened Luis Angel Firpo in three minutes and fifty-seven seconds.

Schmeling, a picture of confidence beforehand and favored by many to become the first ex-champion in history to regain the heavyweight crown, never had a chance after the bell rang for the first round.

The champion took command on the first exchange, belted Schmeling unmercifully about the head, and quickly had the German in distress. Max was on the verge of going down within the first minute, but covered and hung grimly to the ropes, near his own corner, as he tried desperately to save himself.

Finally forced into the open, Schmeling went down on his side, with a rolling motion, after being clipped with a hard right to the head. He struggled to his feet, after only three seconds, only to meet another withering blast.

On the second knockdown, Schmeling sprawled to all fours, after Louis fired both hands to his jaw. The German's eyes were glassy, his mouth open, but his courage somehow pulled him back to his feet, after a count of only one.

Hard Right Ends Bout

Referee Arthur Donovan, rushing between the two as he waved Louis aside, grabbed Schmeling's gloves to wipe them on his shirt, then stepped aside. Panther-like, measuring his man, Louis stepped in quickly to deliver the finishing punch. His right shot out, landed heavily on Schmeling's jaw, and the German went down for the last time.

Max rolled over on his side, instinctively trying to regain his feet, but there wasn't a chance he could do so. At the count of eight, Mack Machon, Schmeling's trainer, tossed the towel into the ring and quickly followed it as he rushed to the aid of the beaten man.

It was thus a technical knockout victory for the champion but it hardly could have been more devastating or complete.

STOCK MARKET ON THE RISE

For the past three days the stock market has been climbing, and indications are that a gradual upward trend will continue. There are several factors contributing to this upswing, including:

Price increases for zinc, lead and export copper.
Higher steel mill operations and the opinions expressed by steel men that the summer outlook is better than had been expected.

The report of the commerce department showing that wholesale inventories are 14.5 per cent lower than a year ago, leaving room for manufacturers to expand production.

Railroad securities went up on reports of increased car loadings, and wiped out the losses of the past two weeks.

Brokers and financial experts seemed to believe that the forces of depression have begun to recede and that the prospects for business recovery are brightening.

Jefferson Davis Pageant An Interesting Affair

The Jefferson Davis pageant presented by the members of the Macon County Chapter of the United Daughters of Confederacy, in the courthouse Monday evening, was well attended and a very interesting program was rendered.

Mrs. W. A. Hyatt, district director, of Waynesville, opened the meeting and gave a very interesting sketch of the life of Jefferson Davis and of the wonderful highway that was built as a memorial to him. The characters in the pageant representing the 14 states through which this great transcontinental highway traverses, were given by the members of the chapter.

Members of the Chapter appreciate the splendid cooperation which they received from the public.
