HODGES-BISHOP

Miss Virginia Hodges, daughter of J. A. Hodges, of Jasper, Fla., and W. E. Bishop, also of Jasper, were married Sunday evening, June 26, on the courthouse lawn at Clayton, Ga.

The bride was attractively dressed in navy printed chiffon with navy accessories.

Those attending the bride and groom included Mrs. Ard Bradley as matron of honor, Margaret Register as maid of honor, Estelle Edwards as bridesmaid, and Eugene Hodges as best man.

The couple left immediately for a honeymoon trip to Asheville, after which they will return to Jasper, Fla., where they will make their home.

BOBBY JONES AND YATES TO PLAY MATCH HERE

An exhibition golf match will be played at the Highlands Country club on July 4th by Bobby Jones and Charlie Yates, the 1938 British amateur champion. The golfers will arrive in Highlands on Friday. A large gallery is expected to see the match. Bobby Jones is a popular summer resident of Highlands and has a home at the club.

H. G. RANDALL DEAD BY OWN HAND

Word was received on Sunday of the death of H. G. Randall, of Highlands and Cincinnati. It is reported that Mr. Randall met his death by his own hand on Sunday morning in Cincinnati. Mr. Randall is the father of Mrs. Jack Wilcox, of Highlands. "Billy Cabin," on Flat Mountain, is the summer home of the Randalls.

LIBRARY NOW OPEN ON TUESDAYS AND SATURDAYS

Personal Consultants

We are regarded by those we have served as their personal consultants who can be relied upon for friendly, experienced advice. Many come to us in advance of their need seeking full knowledge about making funeral arrangements. We show them that each family controls the price by selecting the furnishings and items of service that meet their requirements.

Families of ample means often wish elaborate funerals reflecting the individuality and preferences of the departed. Others prefer less expensive services appropriate to the memory of the one they are honoring.

Every service represented in our wide price range is one of incontestable quality and sound value.

LIGHT LINE EXTENDED TO HORSE COVE

The town of Highlands is putting in a light line into Horse Cove and it is extended into Whiteside Cove. It is hoped that this will lead to the building of more homes in this section.

PARTY ATTENDS MEETING AT SULLINS COLLEGE

Rev. R. B. DuPree, Jack Potts and Wendell Cleaveland have returned from the Young Peoples' meeting at Sullins college in Bristol, Va.

They spent a week having six lectures a day on the Science of Leadership, Presbyterianism, Youth Problems, and the Church Program.

There were 225 young people attending this meeting from Western North Carolina, Virginia, and Tennessee.

Jack Potts graduated after three years' attendance.

B. Y. P. U. MEETING SUNDAY EVENING

The B. Y. P. U. lesson was presented by the president, Carlton Cleaveland, assisted by Mildred Littleton, Carolyn Potts, and Edward Potts.

The Bible quiz included interesting questions on "Isaiah's Vision and Call."

The group sang "I Would Be True" while the secretary, Doris Potts, gave out new quarterlies to the members.

The parts were then given out for the next Sunday by Carlton Cleaveland and the program was turned over to Mr. Benfield for preaching service.

PAINTINGS ON EXHIBIT AT GIFT SHOP

An exhibit of interest to local and summer residents is a group of oil paintings of the mountains and views surrounding Highlands, which is at present on display at The Gift Shop. The artist is Lucie H. Locke and she has painted the views from her summer location southwest of Highlands, off the Walhalla Road. Included in the canvass is a picture of the side of Satulah Mountain, and one of Rabun Mountain. In a picture of "The Nantahalas" the artist has caught the beauty and the majestic splendor of the distant mountains. Several other paintings are included in the group, which is a delight to all who are familiar with this section of the country.

"WANDERBIRDS HIKING CLUB" GUESTS AT TRICEMONT TERRACE

Members of "The Wanderbirds Hiking Club," of Washington, D. C., have been guests at Tricemont Terrace for the past two weeks. This group of prominent and well-known people from the nation's capital arrived on June 19 by car and bus and are enjoying their stay in Highlands. Mr. Thomas, the president of the club was a guest at Tricemont last year for five weeks and was so delighted with Highlands and the surrounding countryside that he brought the club this year to share his enthusiasm. Each member of the group has expressed his pleasure in being here and all are singing their praises of this beautiful section of the country. Rain has not dampened their spirits, and each day the group has taken a long hike.

Included in the list of visitors is Laura G. Rogers, formerly with the department of justice, who has just returned from the Orient and a world cruise; Herbert B. Walker, U. S. department of agriculture, whose specialty is vegetable breeding; Mary A. Savage, securities and exchange commission; W. N. Moreland, U. S. weather bureau; Marguerite J. Cox, auditor, veterans' administration; C. B. Thomas, president of the "Wanderbirds Club," who is a pharmacist and connected with the government printing office; Rose Marie Smith, statistician in the office of education, department of interior; Walter W. Stout, Pullman company; Wm. C. Cagle, chemist in the bureau of standards; Neita Rexroat, secretary of social securities board; Leslie Fuller, vice-president of the "Wanderbirds Club," federal trade commission; Harrison S. Krider, bureau of standards, department of commerce; Eugene S. Henning, Navy department, bureau of engineering; Bruce Caldwell, U. S. department of agriculture; Mrs. Helen S. Brundage, teacher in the Marjorie Webster School for Girls; Ethel C. Meininger, Detroit, Mich., Alcabal tax division; Albert Distel, Navy department; Mrs. Fred Ball; W. Howard Ball, department of agriculture.

To all these and their friends, Highlands extends a hearty welcome to come again.

Mr. and Mrs. James N. Lowe are to be congratulated on the birth of their son, James Luther Lowe. Mrs. Lowe is the former Miss Bernice Rice.

Miss Bess Hines has returned from West Palm Beach, Fla.
