Careful Preparation Needed To Grow Lawn

Growing a really beautiful lawn is much harder than keeping grass out of row crops where it is not wanted, said Glenn O. Randall, horticulturist at State college.

To establish a good lawn, preparation of the soil should start at least one year before planting time. The first step is to grade the grounds, if necessary, then apply plenty of organic matter to provide plant food and to keep the soil from baking hard.

Green manure crops such as soybeans or cowpeas may be plowed under, or rotten stable manure and leafmold may be spread over the ground at the rate of one to two cubic yards for each 1,000 square feet.

After the manure has been worked in, broadcast fertilizer over the area and rake or disk it in. In the mountain section apply about 500 pounds 4-8-4 fertilizer per acre.

The ground should be firm beneath the surface, but should be loose, fine, and mellow on top.

The best time to seed a lawn in North Carolina, is the last of August or first of September. Use only the best seed, divide the seed into two parts and sow each part at right angles to the other to insure uniform distribution. Harrow or rake in the seed, but don't cover them with more than half an inch of dirt.

A good lawn can be sown with 40 pounds of Italian rye grass and five pounds of white clover seed per acre, with Bermuda grass root cuttings dropped six to eight inches apart in eight to ten inch shallow furrows. Put in the cuttings, cover them up, then sow the seed.

Truth Will Come Hard In the "Device" Racket

Electric belts, nose straighteners, mechanical bust developers, stretching devices, and dozens of other gadgets, knickknacks, and flim-flams will have to be truthfully labeled when the new Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act goes into effect next June 25. These "therapeutic devices" have escaped regulation because they are not drugs.

Telling the truth is going to come hard for proprietors of some of these old frauds, enforcement officials admit. Amber beads will have to sell as amber beads and not as a preventive of croup in babies; or as a "cure" for goitre, the only effect being to postpone competent treatment of this serious disease.

Under the old law officials watched this section of what W. G. Campbell, chief of the food and drug administration, calls the "underworld of the food and drug industries" and stepped in when a drug was involved—for example in the case of the "iodine socks" (ordinary hosiery scented with iodoform) recommended as "invaluable to sufferers from gout, rheumatism, flu, colds, varicose veins, bad legs, corns, bunions, and aching feet." Most escaped, however, because no drug store was involved, and there was no check on "claims" however absurd or dangerous to buyers.
