

Brinkley Movies To Be Shown At Highlands

The moving pictures of Dr. John R. Brinkley's 1936 vacation will be shown at Highlands Theatre on Friday afternoon, September 23, at 2 o'clock. This is a seven-reel picture and shows the most interesting phases of the trip, beginning in Del Rio, Texas, and showing various scenes in Galveston through the Panama Canal, Treasure Island, and other South Sea islands. It shows Dr. Brinkley landing South Sea salmon, and the return through the Panama Canal to the coasts of Maine, where he landed the largest tuna fish ever caught, weighing 788 pounds, thereby becoming the world's champion tuna fisherman over Zane Grey, whose fish was 758 pounds.

The picture is shown as an educational feature and was secured through Thad D. Smith, an old Jackson county schoolmate and personal friend of Dr. Brinkley.

Dr. Brinkley is spending his vacation at his summer home at Tuckaseegee, Jackson county, and Mr. Smith hopes to have him and Mrs. Brinkley in person at the theatre on Friday.

This picture is being shown free and the public is cordially invited.

Two Union Sunday Schools Organized

Two union Sunday schools have been organized in Macon county by R. H. Hull, missionary of the American Sunday school union, who, with Mrs. Hull, has recently come to Franklin to take up this work.

One school has been organized on Coweta creek with over 100 enrolled, in a section which is several miles from a church, where the young people do not attend any Sunday school. The schoolhouse is used for this school. Turtle Pond community is the location of the second school, five or six miles from the nearest church, where there has not been a Sunday school for 15 years, and where the gatherings are held in one of the homes of the neighborhood.

A school has also been organized in Georgia, just over the line from Macon county in the Tate City settlement, where the nearest church is eight miles away.

Mr. Hull explained that the American Sunday school union, with headquarters in Philadelphia, has maintained its helpful ministry to the homes along the "Back Roads" of America since 1817, so that many unreached children might have the privilege of Christian teaching and training.

The following statement explains relation to the churches: "We cooperate most heartily with all the churches and denominational agencies. One of the finest fruitages of our work is discovered in the number of churches that have had their origin in a Union Sunday school." Members of these isolated schools are urged to connect themselves with the church of their choice and become working members.

In addition to Sunday schools, the fact is brought out that rural missionary work involves many things besides the establishing of Sunday schools in needy and neglected communities. Sometimes a visit to an isolated home means ministering for hours to the sick and dying—perhaps a trip to the doctor or hospital where the distance of a remote neighborhood would otherwise make these services impossible.

Mr. and Mrs. Hull bespeak the cooperation and prayers of all people of the county in this new work.

Leatherman Reunion Held Sunday

The Leatherman reunion was held Sunday, September 18, at the home of Mrs. W. E. Ammons, of Sylva, with a large number of relatives and friends present.

Very interesting talks were made by Hugh Montieth and the Rev. Rogers, of Sylva. String music was furnished by the Moore quartet, of Sylva, and Misses Emma and Sarah Ammons, of Ellijay. Many songs were sung by other quartets throughout the day.

A bountiful dinner was served at the noon hour on the lawn.

Aruan Beasley, of Sylva, was selected president for next year. Mrs. Walton R. Smith, Miss Hazel Ammons, Scott Allen and Lonnie Ammons were elected as a committee, and decided that the reunion will be held next year on the third Sunday in September at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walton R. Smith, of Leatherman, the old home place of Mr. and Mrs. Z. M. Leatherman in whose memory the reunion is held.

To Organize W. N. C. Singing Convention

A call has been issued for a meeting to be held in the Greenville high school auditorium on Sunday, October 9, for the purpose of organizing a Western North Carolina singing convention. The convention will include all counties in the 20th judicial circuit, as follows: Haywood, Jackson, Macon, Swain, Graham and Cherokee.

J. M. Raby, president pro tem, and Clarence Bumgarner, secretary and treasurer, issued the call. It is proposed at this meeting to elect permanent officers and arrange for the convention to be held annually. Choirs, quartets, duets, soloists, and all interested in singing, are invited to attend the convention.

Fulcher Reunion Sunday, October 2

The reunion of the Fulcher family will be held Sunday, October 2, at the home of Mrs. Ada Fulcher. All relatives and friends are invited to attend and bring basket lunch.

ADDITIONAL FRANKLIN SOCIAL ITEMS

Dr. Padgett Urges That Children Be Vaccinated

By P. G. PADGETT, M. D.
Assistant District Health Officer
Macon County Health Dept.

There are at present, scattered about Macon county, quite a few cases of contagious diseases. Most of these cases are whooping cough. However, several cases are septic sore throat and a few suspicious of diphtheria.

Vaccination will prevent most of the contagious diseases we have to deal with each year. There are effective vaccinations which protect against diphtheria, smallpox and typhoid fever, therefore these diseases are absolutely inexcusable. Against whooping cough there is a vaccination which gives some immunity in about two-thirds of the cases vaccinated. Parents are guilty of negligence when they fail to have their children vaccinated against all contagious diseases against which there is a vaccination offered.

Every child should be vaccinated against diphtheria at six months of age. The child should receive vaccination against smallpox and whooping cough at one year of age. Typhoid vaccination should be given any time after the other vaccinations have been completed.

Six months after each diphtheria vaccination the child should have the Schick test to determine whether the vaccination has given immunity against diphtheria.

A child should be vaccinated against smallpox until it gets a scar. The smallpox vaccination should be repeated every seven years. Typhoid vaccinations should be repeated every two years.

Parents, please do not neglect your children longer. These protections are available almost for the asking, let us keep disease from the children in Macon county.

Names Omitted From Death Notice
