

FARMERS BUY FINE CATTLE

Thoroughbred Bulls And Heifers Bought By Macon Men

By S. W. MENDENHALL
County Agent

A group of farmers in the county who are particularly interested in improving the type of beef cattle in the county expressed the desire to make a trip through the beef cattle producing sections of Eastern Tennessee and Southwest Virginia for the purpose of purchasing some good pure bred Hereford cattle.

The county and assistant county agents were particularly pleased that this desire was evident and were more than glad to accompany this group or any other group on a trip for the purpose of improving the livestock in the county.

Farmers making the trip with the county and assistant agent were: Roy Southards, John Roane, M. S. Burnette, J. R. Holbrooks, J. B. Matlock, Floyd Roper, Paul Ammons, and Rafe Teague. The party left Franklin Friday morning and returned to Franklin, Sunday night. Approximately 15 farms were visited from Knoxville, Tenn., to Lebanon, Va. Every one in the party was particularly impressed with the good cattle, good pastures, and the type of farming that was being done through these sections.

While on the trip a truck load of extra good Hereford cattle were purchased. Floyd Roper purchased a bull and a bred heifer, Rafe Teague purchased a bull and bred heifer, J. R. Holbrooks purchased a bull, J. B. Matlock purchased a bred heifer, Roy Southards and John Roane together purchased a bull. All of these cattle were pure bred and registered. In addition to these two grade calves were purchased to be fed out by 4-H club members.

There had been purchased this year, but prior to this time, four pure bred registered Hereford bulls. These bulls were purchased by Sam Waters, G. W. Owenby, W. A. Berry, and C. S. Slagle. These make a total of eight registered bulls and three registered heifers that have been purchased in the county this year which is conclusive evidence that the farmers of Macon county are realizing the extreme need of good cattle and the value that these cattle can be to the county.

They Defend Titles at International Show

When the International Livestock exposition opens Saturday at Chicago, these two champions will be on hand to defend their titles. Left, William H. Curry of Tipton, Ind., who has been "corn king" at the grain and hay show the past two years. Right, Arthur McArthur, herdsman for Oklahoma A and M college, Stillwater, shown with Ashbourne Orange, a purebred shorthorn steer which won grand championship honors last year over thousands of prize heaves.

Farm Committee To Be Elected In County

The agricultural adjustment act provides for the annual election of community and county committees to administer the agricultural conservation program and any other program under the act.

The election is to be conducted by mail. Ballots for nominating and election of community committees should reach each farmer participating in the program this week. A letter stating the procedure to follow in the election will accompany the ballot. Ballots must be filled in and signed according to instructions and returned to the county agent's office not later than 5 o'clock p. m. Saturday, November 19.

The success of the program depends to a large extent, on the type of men that are elected to represent the farmers of the county.

It is the responsibility of every eligible farmer to vote for the men whom he thinks are most suited to help promote better agriculture in Macon county.

Book Week Will Be Observed By Local Library

In discussing National Book Week, November 13-19, Mrs. Frank I. Murray, librarian of the Franklin public library, furnished the following statement in regard to its origin and meaning:

"The term of 'Book Week' originated more than a decade ago in the mind of Franklin K. Matthews, chief librarian of the Boy Scouts of America. He interested other librarians in the idea of devoting a particular seven-day period of each year, midway between the summer and Christmas holidays, to stressing books for boys.

"This group of literary missionaries dreamed of showing the younger generation the pleasure and advantages of the book habit and so of raising continually new crops of larger and discriminating readers.

"The splendid dream was at once vigorously translated into action. From the start, Boys' Book Week was a huge success. Soon, unable to show great cause for excluding the girls, and stimulated by the eloquent advocacy of Fredric G. Melcher, it became Children's Book Week. Before long the new idea met with such a hearty welcome not only from children but also from grown-ups, that the original specialized juvenile significance was submerged in a general observance by old and young alike.

"Children's Book Week has now, in the minds of the great majority, become plain Book Week, without distinction of age, sex or previous condition of literacy.

"Book Week Slogan for 1938 is 'New Books—New Worlds,' which is a title broad enough to include old and new favorites for every reader. 'We believe that we have books, pamphlets and magazines that will help you in your daily work, and our collection of books for recreation and leisure reading is constantly being increased.

"We shall be honored to have you visit the library and take out a free membership card, and hope that we may be of some service to you. 'Hours are 1 to 5 p. m. daily except Monday.'

More Second Crop June Apples

Robert Sloan, who lives near town, brought to The Press office Monday several fine June apples from a second crop which was raised on the Sloan place. He also stated that he had an Early Harvest tree which produced a second crop.

PLENTY

With large supplies and relatively low prices in prospect for 1938-39, the outlook is for continued liberal feeding of livestock, says John Arey, extension dairyman at State college.

ESTIMATED TIMBER

Because he had some fine pines about 75 years old and wanted to protect his new growth in selling the mature timber, Fred Yates of Chadbourne, Columbus county, had the extension forester at State college to use the scale stick in estimating the timber he wished to sell. "It was better than selling blindly," Mr. Yates said.
