REV. FRANK BLOXHAM CONDUCTS CHAPEL

Chapel program Monday was conducted by Rev. Frank Bloxham of the Franklin Episcopal church. He spoke to the student body on the word "Watch." He said watch your words for words are instruments of either harm or good. Watch your actions, for actions speak louder than words. Watch your temper, for it is something found and you think you must use it. Watch your character, for every action, word or your temper makes character. Rev. Bloxham also said for the girls to watch their hearts. Mr. Wells invited Rev. Bloxham to visit the school again in behalf of the student body.

Both teams have been practicing with diligent efforts since the holidays in order to get in trim for Papers will be judged on quality of writing and reporting, appearance of headlines and make up, quality and appearance of advertising, circulation in relation to size of the school, and general editorial policy and enterprise.

Recommendations Made At Potato Conference

Recommendations relative to the 1939 agricultural conservation program and to marketing of potatoes were made to the U. S. department of agriculture at a recent national conference of potato growers held in Washington.

John C. Broom of Aurora and H. C. Meads of Weeksville were the North Carolina representatives at the meeting.

Among the recommendations were: That the rates of payments in connection with potato acreage allotments be the same in 1939 as they were in 1938; that the methods of determining state, county and farm acreage allotments be unchanged; that the AAA be urged to obtain as rapidly as possible the most recent and accurate data to be used as a basis for adjusting state potato yield figures; and that greater authority be granted county and community committees to adjust yield figures for individual farms.

The industry also requested the U. S. department of agriculture to develop marketing agreement programs and submit them to potato growers in a referendum as soon as possible, and that such marketing programs be supplements to diversion programs.

The extension service, AAA and other educational agencies were asked to cooperate in disseminating information as to marketing agreements and diversion programs. A plea was made for research studies dealing with the possibilities and development of new uses and new outlets for potatoes as a means of handling surpluses.

Finally, a national potato committee was suggested to adequately represent the industry in assisting with the establishment of practical procedures for remedying the potato problem.

Pasquotank swine growers meeting recently declared that they liked the cooperative method of hog marketing better than the non-competitive, direct packer-buyer method which was sought to be imposed upon them. The Pasquotank growers will work with other growers in the Albemarle section to make more effective the cooperative plan established there by the State college extension service.

Walter R. Gibbs of Lake Land, Hyde county, has recently set 6,000 cypress seedlings, 2,000 slash pines and 1,000 black locust seedlings. His locust have survived 95 per cent, his slash pine 85 per cent and his cypress 80 per cent. Two years ago, Mr. Gibbs planted three acres of pines that show a 95 per cent survival.
