"Hot Shot" England Gets Big Turtle

An ancient turtle, 28 inches long and weighing 14½ pounds, was caught Monday morning by "Hot Shot" England and Charlie Scruggs, colored, while fishing in Lake Emory.

The turtle was caught on "Hot Shot's" hook and both boys labored mightily for some time before landing him. The turtle had a tail like an alligator and looked as if he might have been here before the Cherokees came into the country.

Correction

In the faculty list of the county schools printed in the last issue of The Press, an error was made in listing Slagle school. It should have read as follows:

Slagle school—Miss Nora Moody, principal; Miss Alice Slagle, Mrs. G. G. Nolen, Mrs. Herbert Angel.

FUNERALS OF True Dignity

A better understanding regarding funeral practices and costs exists today. Fewer people imagine that they can save money by accepting a stereotyped service offered at a supposedly "Popular Price."

Families of lowered financial resources are learning they need not compromise with circumstances. True dignity in funerals is afforded them at prices they, themselves, select.
