Big Tent Draws Favorable Verdict From Douglas

PRIZE OFFER CLOSES SAT.

In the past but what is accomplished from now on is what counts. This Baby Derby is just like a race of any kind. Any race is won on the home stretch, and the candidate who slows up at this important time is going to be outdistanced—leaving your baby trailing in the dust—"an also ran." The way is wide open for a hustler to "DIG RIGHT IN" and win $15 or $10 special cash prize, honor and glory, $200 and loving cup. Coupons and subscriptions can be gotten by those who will go after them. It will pay you to put forth more determination this week—not next week. When the pessimistic bug bites you feed it just a little more energy for this is a sure cure and you will experience a pleasant feeling. Don't let your baby down now. Remember, the special cash prize offer closes Saturday night. Make every hour count between now and then!

Many of the babies have not yet a subscription reported for them. Just think of it! The parents of these babies have them entered to win—of course. Yet they have entirely overlooked the opportunity for mile-getting offered in subscriptions. Surely any baby in the race, with parents, uncles, aunts, grandparents, friends and acquaintances has at least a few of these people who would renew or become subscribers to The Franklin Press—simply for the asking.

We do not know if some of the folks are a bit reluctant to advance their babies through the subscription angle. They shouldn't feel that way, for in this work you are advancing the future of the county weekly newspaper—the backbone of the nation.

We would like to see each baby represented this week with some subscriptions. We cannot believe that any baby in the race could be so lacking in backers that not a solitary person would help it with a subscription. Surely your parents are going to make an effort these last few days of this week. There are hundreds of prospects for new and renewal subscribers. At least make an effort to get in a $15 "club" by Saturday night.

You Mothers and Dads must remember that baby cannot win the race without your active interest. You are its campaign managers, and unless you are willing to seek the support of a number of people in its behalf, your baby cannot hope to emerge the winner. Why not get busy right now and start the job of putting your baby in the lead?

Jones county has joined with Onslow in an effort to get 100 miles of rural electric power lines, with more than 50 per cent of the potential subscribers already signed up.

Forest Service Issues Attractive Booklet

"Facts on the Forest" is a new booklet just mimeographed by the Nantahala National Forest, an nounced Forest Supervisor Charles Melichar. With covers of bright colors and new line drawings by the Forest Service artist in Atlanta, the booklet contains up-to-date information about the Forest in easily digested form.

It shows that the registration of people at the recreation areas is still increasing rapidly, with 77,105 signing their names in 1939. Of this number, 59 per cent are from outside North Carolina, and 175 people are from foreign countries. Dry Falls was the most popular stopping place in 1938, with 28,163 signatures. Arrowood Glade and pool was second with 25,782 and Wayah Bald third with 9,967.

Copies of this new booklet can be had from the District Forest Ranger at Franklin, Andrews, and Murphy or from the Forest Supervisor's office at Franklin.

W. A. Anderson Passes Monday, June 5

Gibson Reunion Held At Bryson City Saturday

The descendants of the late John Stuart Gibson gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Gibson at Bryson City Sunday for the all-day annual reunion, with approximately 275 members of this pioneer clan present.

Music was rendered by different musicians of this noted clan from various vicinities throughout the afternoon.

A lovely pound cake was presented to Rogers Dalton, of Gastonia, for guessing nearest to the number of living relatives of this family, which totals 1,292.

Only three daughters of the 15 children born to this family are living. They are Mrs. Margaret Carter, of Anderson, S. C.; Mrs. Fannie Dillard, Demorest, Ga., and Mrs. Nancy Cardon, of Leatherman, and were all present on this occasion.

The reunion next year will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Bryson at West's Mill.
