

Anniversary

Observed By Burningtown Baptist Church

More than 300 persons gathered at the Burningtown Baptist church last Thursday to celebrate the church's 100th anniversary.

John E. Rickman, of Franklin, presided. He is a grandson of the late Rev. Merritt Rickman, pioneer Baptist minister of Buncombe county, who later moved to Macon county and held many revivals in this church.

The Rev. R. F. Mayberry, of Franklin Route 3, preached at 11 o'clock. This was followed by a talk on missions by the Rev. George A. Cloer, of Franklin Route 4. James M. Swafford, of Iotla, spoke on the "Organization and History of the Burningtown church." Dover R. Fouts, prominent attorney of Burnsville, made an interesting talk on "Sunday Schools," and the Rev. Norman E. Holden, of Liberty, Macon county, spoke on "How to Meet the Present Problems of the Church."

This church was organized on June 15, 1839, with 15 members, 13 women and two men, two deacons, a clerk, and a treasurer. Charles B. Caler, who was widely known throughout Western North Carolina, was the pastor.

The books, with the records of the organization, the names of the members, and the minutes of most of the meetings held during the past 100 years are now in the possession of D. C. Fouts, of Franklin Route 3, a descendant of one of the pioneer members of this church. These records also include births, deaths, donations made to the church and the donors, those dismissed by letter from the church, and the excommunications of the church.

Marion Sanders Wounded During Fight Thursday

Marion Sanders, 35, was taken to Angel hospital suffering from severe knife wounds allegedly inflicted by a cousin, Roy Sanders, 26, during a fight at the latter's service station on the Georgia road last Thursday.

Officers, who investigated, said Marion Sanders was cut with a pocket knife on the left chest and abdomen. Both men operate service stations in the same neighborhood. Officers said business rivalry was the cause of the quarrel.

Roy Sanders surrendered to officers and was lodged in the county jail.

Marion Sanders was taken to Angel hospital immediately after the fight and was reported Tuesday to be well on the way to recovery.

To Those Who Have Given Little Thought To The COST OF FUNERALS

It is possible for those who have given little or no thought to funeral costs to make grievous errors of judgment if a loved one is suddenly taken.

One common mistake is to think that lower prices are paid for "Popular Priced" funerals. We never charge more, often less, than is paid for the so-called "bargain" services. Our price privacy protects the feelings as well as the finances of those we serve.
