Mack Patton Awarded Scholarship At Raleigh

Among the 20 North Carolina farm boys who have been selected as the recipients of the Sears-Roebuck scholarships, worth $100 each, is Mack S. Patton, of Macon county, son of Robert A. Patton.

The scholarships are given in connection with the work of State college at Raleigh.

ALLOTMENTS

It appears from a preliminary surveys, says Farm Agent C. R. Ammons, that Harnett county growers have overplanted their tobacco allotments by 35 per cent, while a majority have stayed within their cotton allotment.

Twins—Five Sets of 'Em—Amaze New Yorker.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fifield of East Thompson, Conn., shown with 11 of their 13 children, including five sets of twins, as they lunched in a New York restaurant. New Yorkers were as much amazed at the sheer number of the children as the children were of the city's skyscrapers. The youngest set of twins, Franklin Delano and Eleanor Roosevelt, are only two years old. The oldest child, Marguerite, 13, is seated next to her mother at the head of the table. Two of the children, including an infant son, are not shown.

'Heaven' Can Wait—If Newport Has Its Way

Mrs. Angela C. Kaufman, widow of the multi-millionaire Joseph Kaufman, was recently refused a liquor license by Newport, R. I., officials when she planned on converting her mansion into an exclusive dinner and cocktail place. Then the fireworks started. Mrs. Kaufman created a furore in the ultra-fashionable resort by offering the mansion to "Father" Divine, Negro cult leader, as a "heaven" for his followers. The Negro evangelist accepted the offer, and is completing plans for establishing the new "heaven." Left: The Kaufman mansion which will house the Divine flock. Right: The bar for which Mrs. Kaufman was refused a liquor license.

Police Close 'Human Slave Market'

Photographers had to be alert to get this view of America's most novel matchmaking establishment, "The Human Slave Market," for immediately after bids got under way, Pallsades, N. J., police stepped in and sent six people to jail on the charge of maintaining a nuisance. Here the auctioneer is asking for bids on a young man, an elderly gentleman and a young girl. The idea of the "market" was to offer marriageable subjects on the block.

Masquerade Revealed

Involved in a minor traffic mixup, James W. Phipps was taken to a Pasadena, Calif., police station. There a sergeant penetrated the disguise and revealed "him" as a woman. Twice married, Phipps is the present "husband" of Mrs. Mabel Phipps, 50. For 23 years Minerva Phipps masqueraded as a man. "His" first wife died in 1928.

COMPETITION

Because of the increasing popularity of the small tractor, many farm machinery companies are making bids to capture part of this attractive market.

Cotton improvement groups in 13 states have applied for free classing and market news services during the ginning season for their 1939 crop.
