

State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

Q. What is the best green feed for poultry in winter?

A. Cured alfalfa hay, lespedeza, or clover hay make good greens for winter use provided the green color is restrained. Alfalfa leaf meal, if green in color, also makes a satisfactory feed, but should not constitute more than 10 per cent of the mash. This feed is much preferred to alfalfa meal which has a high fiber content, but neither is as satisfactory as green alfalfa hay. All the hays should be fed in racks as the birds will eat only the leaves and the stems can then be thrown in the litter.

Q. Should shade trees be pruned in winter the same as fruit trees or shrubs?

A. No. Many beautiful groves are ruined each year by quack tree surgeons or by superstitious persons. Shade trees should be allowed to form their natural shape and, if there are too many trees, thin them out rather than cut them back. For scale control, the trees should be sprayed with lime-sulphur or miscible oil. The same treatment should be applied to fruit trees and shrubs. Be sure the air is still and not too cold when the spray is applied.

Q. How can stomach worms be controlled in a herd of young cattle?

A. Preventive measures are very important in controlling this parasite. The pasture should be well drained and the cattle frequently changed to fresh pasture. Drinking water should be supplied from a well or from flowing streams preferably in troughs above the level of the ground. The medical treatment consists of drenching the animals with a solution of copper sulphate made by dissolving one-fourth pound of clear blue crystals of copper sulphate in one pint of boiling water and adding enough cold water to make three gallons of the solution. For yearling cattle the dose is six fluid ounces and a second treatment should be given in 10 to 14 days.

State College Offers Data On Fertilizers

Two circulars containing detailed recommendations of approved fertilizers for tobacco and other crops grown in North Carolina are available free upon application to the Agronomy department of the North Carolina agricultural experiment station at State college, announces Prof. C. B. Williams, head of the department.

One of the circulars, No. 116, contains information on approved fertilizers for all crops grown in the state, while the other, No. 119, gives in more detail recommendations for tobacco fertilizers exclusively.

"All of the recommendations are based upon the assembled judgment of field workers of the department of agronomy," Prof. Williams said. "They have a vital touch with the field fertilizer experimental work which has been conducted in the state, including demonstrations conducted by the State college extension service through county farm agents and cooperating farmers."

"High grade, well-balanced fertilizers will usually cost more per ton than will low grade poorly proportioned goods," the agronomist continued, "but with tobacco of all crops, costing so much more per acre to produce, ill proportioning of the essential plant nutrients from the best suited materials can least be afforded."

He also stressed the importance of applying the correct amounts of fertilizers per acre for different soil types and conditions, and the value in using fertilizer at the proper time and in such a manner as to give the best results.

Convicted Pastor Fights for Life

Rev. Walter Dworecki, Camden, N. J., preacher, sentenced to die in the electric chair, is getting another chance to prove his innocence. The pastor will appeal his sentence, given him when he was found guilty of plotting the murder of his daughter, Wanda, who was slain by a stranger who testified Dworecki hired him to commit the crime. He is shown receiving a final embrace from his daughter, Mildred. The appeal automatically postponed the execution date, originally scheduled for the week of November 12.

Meat-Eater

A vicious plant is this meat-eating Venus fly-trap, found only in North Carolina bogs. Here an innocent bee unknowingly approaches his doom. Six tiny hairs inside the doubled leaf act as triggers when disturbed, causing the leaves to come together, thus trapping its prey.

Here is poor Bernard Bee after lighting inside the fly-trap and disturbing its "triggers." The leaves fold swiftly together, imprisoning the victim with stiff bristles.

This action causes digestive juices to flow, and the hapless bee will be nothing more than a skeleton in a few hours. He will have been devoured by the plant. An enigma, the Venus fly trap shows the transition between plant and animal life. Gardeners have had very little success growing the plant in other environments.

American Boy Magazine Companion To Thousands

Hundred of thousands of boys and young men read The American Boy Magazine every month and consider it more as a living companion than as a magazine.

"It's as much a buddy to me as my neighborhood chum," writes one high school senior. "The American Boy seems to understand a boy's problems and considers them in such a sympathetic and helpful way. It gives advice and entertaining reading on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. It is particularly helpful in sports. I made our school basketball team because of playing tips I read in The American Boy."

Many famous athletes in all sports credit much of their success to helpful suggestions received from sports articles carried in The American Boy Magazine. Virtually every issue offers advice from a famous coach or player. Football, basketball, track, tennis, in fact every major sport is covered in fiction and fact articles.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boys clubs also recommend The American Boy enthusiastically. They have found that as a general rule regular readers of The American Boy advance more rapidly and develop more worthwhile characteristics than do boys who do not read it.

Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in The American Boy, the sort of reading matter boys like best.

The American Boy sells on most newsstands at 15c a copy. Subscription prices are $1.50 for one year or $3.00 for three years. Foreign rates 50c a year extra. To subscribe simply send your name, address and remittance direct to The American Boy, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.
