Hear N. F. Bridgers Of Tours Company

The Franklin Lions on Monday night, heard W. F. Bridgers of the Smoky Mountain Tours Company in Asheville, praise this section of North Carolina. "With the Great Smoky Mountain National Park providing national advertising, all neighboring communities benefit as the tourists spread out from the park," Mr. Bridgers said.

Continuing, the speaker said that today many agencies are advertising the Smokies and Western North Carolina, and that his company has just printed 100,000 folders describing the Packard bus tours, several of these tours coming through Franklin, that railroad companies are issuing illustrated folders on Western North Carolina, travel agencies, the Greyhound Bus company and even the City of Chicago are advertising the Great Smokies. Last year Illinois sent more tourists on the Smoky Tour than any other state, Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts followed in order, according to records.

This year promises to be considerably better than last year which suffered from the two World Fairs. On June 18 a tour of Rotarians is coming through Franklin, and Mr. Bridgers pointed out that it will be a good opportunity for Franklin and the Rotarians to play host. One-fifth of the tourists last year said they were on their second or third trip to this vacationland, which is not so majestic as the Rockies, but more friendly. Worldwide travelers have said the most imposing view is the panorama from Wayah Bald.

Town Improvements

According to Mr. Bridgers, tourists will not stay in a town with dirty streets, unsightly vacant lots, and above all, dirty rest rooms in filling stations. Cordiality by the citizens is also important. He complimented Franklin on the improvement in the appearance of Main street during the past year, with its new Macon Theatre; Burrell's Garage building; the fresh paint on the buildings, such as the Dean house, Munday Hotel, E. K. Cunningham, Reeves' Hardware, Franklin bank building, Macon Hardware, Sanders, Cagle's Cafe; Pendergrass' Grocery; Kelly's Tea Room and Gift Shop; and the Willis' Apartments. The courthouse and several other buildings could be made more attractive with a coat of paint, it was added.

The tourist business has just started for this section of the country and each year will see greater demand for more and better accommodations. The new information booth on Main street was admired by Mr. Bridgers as being a necessary forward step by the Town of Franklin.

Bill Johnson, of The Franklin Press, was welcomed as a new member.
