

1940 Graduating Class of Franklin High School

Mrs. Crosby's Funeral

 Mary J. Crosby, of Highlands and San Mateo, Fla. Five grandchildren and two great grandchildren also survive.

During and after the World War Mrs. Crosby was an ardent knitter for the soldiers, winning recognition in the Red Cross magazine at Washington for her ceaseless endeavors in working for the soldiers. In this work she was reminded of the time when she scraped lint for surgical use in the Civil War and knit socks for "the boys in blue."

 She was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church since early girlhood, and at various times president of woman's clubs and of the different church organizations. Although intensely interested in all civic affairs, she was essentially a home-maker, and up to the time of her last illness helped with the household duties. She was affectionately known as "Gram", and could easily hold her own in matching wit with the younger generation. In her passing Highlands has lost an esteemed citizen.

open it for the season. Mr. and Mrs. Todd are experienced in the tourist business and are much pleased with the advantages of Rogers Hall in attracting summer guests. "We are bringing a number of our Florida guests and friends to Franklin who have not known of this delightful section of the mountains," said Mr. Todd yesterday.

Franklin Loses Game

 The Franklin pinch hitters were retired in short order and the game was over.

Dalrymple, with four hits out of five times at the bat, was the big noise for the Franklin team. Whitmire turned in some fine work at third, starting off two flashy double plays from third to first. The play of Tysinger in right field was also note worthy for several nice catches of line drives from Hazelwood's array of left handed hitters. Frank Higdon was in fine form and but for an error in the seventh inning would have won his game.

Sunday afternoon Franklin meets the Asheville All-Stars in a single game and will attempt to make it two out of three from the club with whom they divided a double header two weeks ago.
