Offer Many A Chance To Progress

Today the program is carried out as a WPA project. Mrs. Leona P. Duncan has served as a teacher and as head teacher, with many other able and devoted teachers who have taught classes in every nook and cranny of the county.

The following figures will give some idea of progress up from illiteracy in Macon county.

According to the 1930 census figures Macon County had 585 absolute illiterates, or people who were honest enough to admit they did not know how to sign their names, plus many others whose pride kept them from making the admission to the census taker. Statistical reports in the District office show that between 1935 and 1938, 953 absolute illiterates were taught by the teachers working in Macon County. In 1939, 1940, 1941 we can add these additional numbers to the list taught, 867, making a total of 1820.

In Macon County Trains Many Youths

The program began in this county in a limited way late in 1935. Since its inception, aside from furnishing needed employment the payroll has amounted to over 60,000 in this county. It has increased to give work to about 200 needy young people for their support or for student aid.

Projects of a useful nature are instituted that pay a per hour wage. Assisting WPA lunch rooms, doing clerical work for government agencies, road building, carpentry and weaving are some of the activities. Mrs. Margaret Ordway is supervisor of NYA in Macon county.

For two years weaving centers were maintained at Kyle and Franklin. These have been superceded by the large Home Practise

Cagle's Cafe Enlarged And Re-Decorated

The rapidly growing business of Cagle's Cafe has necessitated enlarging the capacity of his dining room to accommodate his everyday patronage.

Probably no single business in Franklin has grown as fast as Cagle's. One of the most persistent and constant advertisers, through every medium, Mr. Cagle has found out that "it pays to advertise." The chief factor in the business' success is the quality of the food and service which holds regular customers and attracts new ones.

Last spring the building that the cafe and dining room occupy was completely renovated, outside and inside. The front was remodeled and covered with stucco, with new awnings added. The dining room has received a handsome makeover, coting panelled in wormy chestnut with new booths which increase the capacity.

Prompt and efficient service is always received at Cagle's Cafe.

Community Center Built

A log building of 30 by 70 feet—judged the finest log building by NYA in the state was built under the sponsorship, of the colored people of the county for a community center. It serves also to supplement inadequate school facilities as a lunch room, as well as auditorium and indoor basket ball.

The May community center has been built under the sponsorship of the People of Otter Creek, and the people of Iotla are sponsoring a center now under construction.

Residents of Horse Cove and Kyle are making efforts to sponsor similar buildings.
