more flying fortresses, "the only thing between us and chaos."

Sir Herbert Gepp, paper manufacturer of Melbourne, Australia, guest of Reuben B. Robertson, spoke of his country's heavy share in the war, and referred to the common bond between his people and those of this country in their possession of the pioneering spirit.

Mrs. James P. Growden, wife of the chief engineer, who was called to Washington, and could not be present, accepted in a graceful speech the company's appreciation of the services of her distinguished husband. His assistant, D. J. Bleifuss, explained the engineering details by chart. Besides the speakers, Mrs. Broughton, Miss Alice Broughton and Mrs. Ramsey were seated on the platform.

Power House Hosts

The officials and office staff of the Nantahala Power company from Franklin were hosts and hostesses at the power house after the ceremonies, when guests were shown the workings of this mighty plant, which has been completed in the record time of 15 months. In expressing expressing appreciation of the finished project, Mr. Thorpe paid special tribute to Joel Tompkins and H. H. Gunse, Jr., electrical engineers of the company who directed the intricate wiring system of the power house.

Many of the guests visited the dam, five miles distance from the power house, traveling over roads built by the company to take the place of those flooded by the lake formed by the Tuckasee river and its tributaries. One new road encircles the lake, high up on the surrounding hills and joins U. S. Highway 107.
