State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

Q. What are recommended rates of fertilizer application for small grains?

A. W. H. Rankin, experiment station agronomist, points out that fertilizers are just as much a part of small grain production as for cotton and tobacco, although applications are not as heavy. Complete fertilizers such as a 4-10-6 on the average soil following row crops and 2-10-6 or 2-12-6 for soils where a good legume sod has been returned are recommended. Fertilization will depend somewhat upon local conditions, but 200 to 400 pounds of the above mixtures give desired results.

Q. What economies can the poultryman make in the face of raising feed prices?

A. Roy S. Dearsteyne, head of the State college poultry department, says there is a solution to this problem in careful culling. The lazy hens will consume about 7½ pounds of feed each month and give little in return. These birds are "boarders" and a walking deficit to the industry. Eliminating them from a flock is one of the most profitable things a poultryman can do.

Q. Is it true that certain winter cover crop seed are no longer available through the AAA grant-of-aid plan?

A. E. Y. Floyd, AAA executive assistant, says no more Austrian winter pea, hairy vetch, or Italian rye grass seed will be available under the 1941 AAA program as grant-of-aid materials. In explaining, he points out that weather conditions in producing areas were such that when these seed were harvested, the crop was considerably below what has been expected. The Government is now making plans to avoid a similar shortage in 1942.
