A THOUGHT FOR ARMISTICE DAY November 11, 1941

"Thy Kingdom Come"

In the assurance to all nations of their right to life and freedom, the deliverance of mankind from the slavery of armaments, the establishment of the reign of law between nations, the recognition of the rights of minorities, the submission of nations and governments to Thy laws, the juster distribution of wealth, the enlargement of educational opportunity for youth, the honoring of the family, the restoration of a sense of vocation to work, the right use of the resources of the earth, the rekindling of a passion for truth, the opening of springs of mercy and compassion, Thy reign over every thought, affection and impulse of our being.

Worthy Stewardship

THE report of accomplishments and benefits over a period of six years through the agency of the Works Progress Administration in Macon county is published in this issue.

The expenditure of nearly a million-and-a-half dollars in labor and material has furnished employment to a large number who would have suffered extreme hardship. Without this opportunity to supplement meagre income or no income at all, many would have been forced to leave their homes who are now re-habilitated. The projects have distributed a variety of blessings over a wide range of the county's territory. Indeed, it is not pleasant to envision our county today without this timely allocation of federal funds. While there may have been some cases of waste which was inevitable from nature of the set up, the total of work done is praiseworthy.

Paved highways, concrete bridges, public buildings and water systems tell only part of the story. These are permanent improvements that will help to raise the standard of living and transportation in these parts. There is much more than the eye can see but which is none the less permanent. Sewing and canning projects have materially aided many homes; adult education classes and library service have brought advantages that many had never before enjoyed.

If any one of the benefits can be counted the greatest, perhaps the hot school lunches should be placed at the top of the list. Thousands of the country's children have been served a well balanced hot meal in the middle of a long day. The needy have received this without cost, the undernourished have been brought up to normal weight and growing young people have been strengthened further towards the ideal of "a sound mind in a sound body."

This report deserves careful reading. It also merits appreciation of the conscientious labors of individuals who have translated a part of the nation's material wealth into stronger lives and better living. This is proof of worthy stewardship.

Labor's Problem

ON Navy Day President Roosevelt delivered a speech in which he declared that the production of materials needed for the national defense must not be obstructed by a minority of arrogant labor leaders.

This part of his speech was thoroughly applauded not only by the group that Mr. Lewis, most arrogant of our nation's labor chieftians, refers to as the anti-labor element, but by a great number of men and women from within the ranks of organized labor. Perhaps these men and women whose reasoning is not warped by thirst for power, see what will happen to them as representatives of labor if Hitlerism is not defeated.

It is expressed very clearly in an editorial in the Charlotte News entitled "Labor Unions In France": "What happens to labor unions in a nation that fights Hitler too late and with too little is outlined in a terse dispatch from Vichy. By decree, all French trade unions are dissolved, their funds confiscated, and their members compelled to join certain "corporate bodies" set up by the state. By the slightest opposition to the puppet government in word, deed, or (it has been demonstrated) thought, a worker may be expelled from the "corporation." Expulsion means no job; unemployment means starvation.

"So much for the workers. But what of the union-leaders, the men who originated the sit-down strike, (who turned the French labor movement into a turmoil of strikes, slowdowns and disputes? Alas, there is no word of these gentlemen. One imagines, however, that a substantial portion of their number is distinctly eligible for service as hostages.

"Apparently, American labor leaders are not impressed by the fate of their French brethren. If they are, they don't show any inclination to profit by the example. France lost the war largely because her industry failed to produce. And the main reason why it failed to produce in the vital years before the war was because French labor leaders put their selfish objectives and their reforms ahead of the nation's safety."

DO IT NOW

(Christian Science Monitor)
One report has it that a curious argument is being used in congressional circles against repeal of that part of the Neutrality Act which prevents American ships from delivering war supplies direct to British harbors. This argument is that Congress would better wait "till Britain gets to fighting again." If a stepping up of the attack on Britain is expected, and certainly it is indicated if Hitler succeeds even measurably in Russia, the logic of the case is to repeal immediately and pour equipment into the British Isles as rapidly as possible while the harbors there are free from bombing. Moreover, if any American thinks British isn't fighting, he might try watching what the average British civilian is doing.

CARE FOR YOUR DOG

Give your dog a good bed, writes Angelo Patri in a copyrighted article (Bell Syndicate). Usually dogs, especially the kind that belong to children, are outdoor animals. That does not mean that they can stay out in all weathers. Far from it. They must be sheltered from storms just as children have to be. But they do not need to be kept as warm. They prefer a cool place. And a rather cool bed. Down cushions and that sort of thing are not good for dogs. Give them a clean, heavy mat, in a sheltered corner of the barn or kennel, keep it off the floor if there is any dampness, and he will like it.
In winter, keep him warmer. He can't endure zero weather without protection. It sounds foolish to say that, because everybody is supposed to know it, but I have known people who thought they were kind to their dogs to put them out at night and shut the door behind them. "Put the dog out," and out he went without a roof over him, or a bed under him.

Your dog friend has to depend upon your good will and service for his drink. Don't fail him. Keep his dish clean and full of good water.

Teach a child to cherish his dog. They will grow together and do each other a lot of good. But don't get the dog until the child is a responsible, friendly young person who knows what caring for a dog friend means.
