This newspaper invites its readers to express their opinions on matters of public interest through its columns. The Press-Maconian is independent in its policies and is glad to print both sides of any question. Letters to the editor should be written legibly on only one side of the paper and should be of reasonable length. The editor reserves the right to reject letters which are too long, are of small general interest or which would violate sensibility of our readers.

BIBLE THOUGHT

What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?—Micah, 6:8.

There is a destiny that makes us brothers; none goes his way alone.—Edwin Markham.

The Democratic Primary

INTEREST is lively in the coming primary, and increases as those seeking nomination become more active in their candidacy. Nearly all incumbents who are in the race have opposition. Perhaps the most interest is in the races that are not foregone conclusions. However, there are no three-cornered races for state or county offices, which is usual, so that the issue is clear-cut between contestants. In most cases, as has been expressed by a veteran office-holder of the county who has had no opposition in the primary for some years, "it is just a matter of counting votes because both men are good men."

In several cases the race is not so simple as that. Voters who are interested in efficient administration of the county's business must weigh qualifications. On the other hand, a democratic principle advanced in behalf of some is the fairness of giving representation in rotation as related to different sections.

The clear-cut democratic principle of the Democratic party to give women representation is also before the people. This is happily indicated in the candidacy of Mrs. Jim Gray for membership on the Board of Education. Yielding to the urgency of voters from every section of the county, this busy wife, mother and public spirited citizen consented to file for membership on the school board of five members. Mrs. Gray has worked unceasingly for the advancement of the homes of this county for a number of years, besides raising her family and helping run the farm.

She is now serving as president of the County Council of Home Demonstration clubs, which represent a large percentage of the people of Macon. For the last two years she has been president of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Otto school. Her fitness for service on the most important board in the county has been well proven. Her good counsel as a mother interested in giving the children and youth the best in training is a need and will be a valuable asset to schools and people.

You'll Need It

By P. F. C. ROBERT H. SANGSTER, Jr.

(The following editorial, written by a Rabun Gap-Nacoochee student now in the Army and published in the school paper this week, is as well stated as it is timely. The Editor.)

WHEN I say "You'll Need It," I am referring to learning, which takes in quite a large field. I will mention the fields of learning with which you students are chiefly concerned.

Some of you left a sheltered life upon leaving home. Your life in the dormitory with fellow-students has taught you to live with other people. These fellow-students represent the public of tomorrow. If you have learned to live with them, and get along in a happy and helpful way, don't worry about living with the public.

In working for your education you have an advantage over students of other schools. This advantage depends upon how well your work has been done, and the realization that most worthwhile things are earned, and not received as a gift.

Class work is of great importance, regardless of what your future vocation will be. I know that "in the spring a young man's fancy often turns to thoughts of love." And the same goes for girls. But don't neglect your studies. Social life and association with the opposite sex are necessary. But studies come first.

"When I say "You'll Need It," I am speaking to those of you who will continue going to school, and with special regard to those that graduate this year. Time is short for graduates and "cramming" is not a good method of passing your work.

Learn all you can while you can. In the classroom, on the campus, in your work program. All of this learning is necessary because—"You'll Need It."

Letters to Editor

To the Citizens of Macon County:
I desire to make a few statements in regard to my candidacy for the nomination for Register of Deeds for Macon county.

After the General Election in 1936 I announced to my friends that I would not seek nomination for this office for the next term, and my word was as good as my bond. I did other work until my successor, who had been my assistant for three years, enlisted in the U. S. Navy on January 1, 1942.

As I was familiar with the work, having served for eight years as Register of Deeds and County Accountant, Mr. Arnold appointed me as deputy to fill his unexpired term. This I am doing to the best of my ability.

Since many of our young men have gone and others will soon be going to serve in the armed forces of the good old U. S. A., I decided that the duty of carrying on the affairs at home should fall on the older men. As I have had experience in the office, and being a man of the older generation, having served in World War I in the United States and with the A.E.F. in France, and not knowing of anyone else seeking the nomination at the time of my announcement, I asked the voters of Macon county to nominate me again for that office in the coming primary, May 30.

I am, indeed, very grateful to all for their loyal support in the past, and I wish to assure you that I shall appreciate each and every vote cast for me in the primary of May 30.

I hereby give my pledge that I will strive to keep the confidence of the people of Macon county by continuing to perform the duties of this important office as I have striven to do in the past, and besides, to be helpful to any person needing my assistance in any way, at any time.

This and That

Leon Henderson has clamped down a price ceiling on all pork products. Apparently, however, there is still no thought of setting any limitation on the old pork barrel in Washington.

An operation on a New Jersey carpenter revealed 410 nails in his stomach. Look out; the SPAB will get him for hoarding.

The enactment of the daylight saving bill gives encouraging evidence that Congress is interested in saving something, even if it's only daylight.

One of the newest navy vessels is temporarily designated the K-9. Must be one of those sea-dogs we've always heard about.

That shortage of wool in Germany isn't so severe that Hitler still has enough to pull over his followers' eyes.

Anyhow, if a shortage of lumber should develop, they can supply any deficiency by cutting up some of the over supply of boards in Washington.

One thing that must be made clear to Mr. John L. Lewis and others is that the battles of the CIO and AFL are not as important as those of the USA.

It's a topsy-turvy world. Leon Henderson ordered a ceiling placed on rugs; but it wouldn't surprise us if he ordered us to place our rugs on the ceiling.

ON THE HIGH SEAS and on land, enlisted women serving with the armed forces and other women in home defense, serve as nurses for the wounded in battle zones as well as for those injured in non-combatant areas. Like the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts who have been trained in First Aid, men and women generally should learn more about this humane art. It is the brighter side of our dark war scene.
