Make America

Stronger Was Appeal Of Speaker To H.D. Club

The address of Mrs. Estelle T. Smith state vice-president of Home Demonstration clubs, before the recent district meeting held in Franklin was reported by the secretary, Mrs. F. E. Mashburn, but arrived too late to be published in last week's paper.

Some of the highlights of this notable address are given here. The speaker traced the progress of the clubs over a period of 20 years when the first club of the western district was organized in Jackson county. From a life rich in experience and accomplishment Mrs. Smith inspired the club women attending from Macon, Clay, Jackson, Haywood, Swain and Cherokee to press on with their purpose of education for better homes which has already created a new spirit and higher ideals throughout this whole section.

Making America strong physically by eating the proper foods was pointed out as a matter of education, and there was an appeal for unity of effort to win the war. She suggested the aim, "Make America strong by making Americans stronger."

She described our "good neighbor", South America, saying that a visit to those countries took all of the conceit out of a North American, because in education and culture they are far above us in many ways—in speaking several languages, they are devout, and their English is pure.

The speaker urged elimination of non-essentials and warned, "Not to let a slip of the lip Sink a ship."

"Let tire and gas rationing be the opportunity for us to get acquainted with our own family and our community," the speaker suggested, closing with an appeal for good will and practise of the Golden Rule, "Let us love our neighbor as ourselves."

Mrs. Mashburn expressed appreciation to the 4-H club girls and to all those whose efforts contributed to the success of a day which will long be remembered by those attending the gathering.

The North Carolina Highway Commission maintains a total of 60,100 miles of state and county roads and 18,000 bridges.

20 Scholarships

In Agriculture Available At State College

RALEIGH—Twenty scholarships worth $100 each are available at State College to aid worthy and needy farm youths of North Carolina to enter the college's School of Agriculture, Dr. Z. P. Metcalf, director of instruction, announced today.

The scholarships are provided by Sears Roebuck and Company, which began the annual practice in 1939. In addition, the firm is providing a $200 sophomore scholarship for the freshman making the best record among the group which received help during the last school year.

Dr. Metcalf will select the youths to receive the scholarships for next year, and application blanks may be secured by writing to him. The firm merely requires that the money should go to needy youths "who have made the most of their opportunities in high school and on the farm."

The rising sophomore recipient of the $200 scholarship for next year will be selected within a few days, Dr. Metcalf said.

In setting up the scholarships several years ago, the firm announced: "We feel that it is only natural that business should cooperate in any way possible in developing our most basic of all industries in the South—farming. To do that seems to be to aid in the development of a better farm leadership."

Thus far, the scholarships have assisted 60 farm boys to enter State College. Those desiring to apply for the new series were urged by Dr. Metcalf to write him at once.
