Special Agricultural War Courses Offered

Three special short courses to train women and girls, and draft-exempt men and boys for wartime agricultural jobs will be offered by N. C. State College, it is announced by Dr. I. O. Schaub, dean of the School of Agriculture.

Dean Schaub said that training will be given in (1) Animal production, including the feeding and management of all types of livestock, including dairy cattle; (2) meat cutting and merchandising; and (3) testing of milk and other dairy products.

The tuition fee will be only $5 for each of the courses, and applications should be sent to Dr. A. O. Shaw, head of the Animal Industry Department, N. C. State College, Raleigh. "Students" will be able to obtain rooms off the campus, and meals at nominal cost in the college cafeteria.

The agricultural short courses, designed to relieve the labor shortage caused by the war, were suggested by Governor J. M. Bronghton at a conference with Colonel John W. Harrelson, administrative dean of State College, and Dean Schaub. The Governor expressed special concern over the shortage of trained labor on dairy farms and in dairy processing plants.

Fertilizers Available For 1943 Crops

Fertilizers will be available for all 1943 crops, T. E. Milliman, chief of the Agricultural Chemicals Unit of the WPB, Washington, declared in a General Electric Farm Forum address here.

Mr. Milliman, who is also president of the GLF soil building service and a breeder of Guernsey cattle in Monroe county, N. Y., said that any restrictions will apply in minor degree and to the less important crops.

"Every fertilizer dealer will be prepared to implement the war effort by intelligently working with the farmer and the fertilizer manufacturer," he pointed out. "Local fertilizer customs and the pattern of historic use will be largely preserved."

"In fact, the farmer is to be less disturbed in his fertilizer supply than in many other directions."

Mr. Milliman said that the Fertilizer Industry Advisory Committee and another committee of farm co-operative, meeting in Washington recently, are of the opinion that fertilizer rationing is unnecessary. They have recommended to the government accordingly, the speaker added.

State College Hints For Farm Homemakers

Food takes the largest share of most incomes. The lower the income, the larger the share must be for food. If part of the food is raised at home, the food bill may be reduced greatly. Here are some suggestions for stretching the food money.

Buy the least expensive foods that will give your family the best nutrition.

Produce as much of your food supply as is practicable (vegetables, eggs, milk, fruits and meats). Can and store foods raised or bought when prices are low.

Buy for current needs; do not hoard.

Teach your family to eat all available foods—food dislikes are not patriotic.

Stop food wastes. Learn to cook vegetables to avoid loss of minerals and vitamins.

Buy whole grain breads, flours, and cereals, or enriched white flour and bread.

Prepare foods at home whenever possible; they are cheaper than ready-to-serve foods such as breads, cereals, desserts and soups.

Expect fewer sizes of canned goods—more bulk goods.

Give your family nourishing packed lunches; they cost less than meals in a restaurant.

Spend as much for milk as for meat, and as much for fruits and vegetables as for meat.

Plan meals carefully ahead of time.

1942 Is Banner Year In Dairy Production

Despite many difficulties, 1942 was a banner dairy year in North Carolina, says John A. Arey, Extension dairymen of N. C. State College. Production was high but costs were great and labor problems were many.

As for the future, Arey said: "Milk is an essential war food. It is the greatest builder of body resistance to disease of all foods. The need for it in this State during 1943 will be greater than in 1942. The supply, on the other hand, will be governed by the price received for it by the farmer. An unfavorable price will make it possible for him to pay present high prices for labor and feed. Without a supply of both, milk production will drop."

The Extension man said that scores of dairymen had either a large or complete turnover in labor during 1942. Much of the new labor when any could be secured, has been high priced, green and inefficient. "This condition," said Arey, "together with the ceiling price on milk, has in some instances eliminated all profit from the dairy business and resulted in the dispersal of a number of herds."

Yet, interest in dairy farming was at a peak in North Carolina during the last 12 months. During August, the top month in milk production, dairy processing plants in the State received 11,869,970 pounds of milk. This is 1,836,930 pounds more than the 1941 August receipts and is the largest on record.

Arey said that the annual cattle sales fairs in Ayrshire, Guernsey, Jersey and Holstein breeding associations. Through purebred animal breeders, were $72,801.72. At of which $22,801.72 was purchased from by local dairymen.

A Message From Frank Jeter

Dear Editor:

State College Station Raleigh, N. C. December 17, 1942

Somehow, I don't feel as blue about this war business as I did one year ago. Not that I am unmindful of the great task before us and of the dreadful costs in lives and money that it will take before we are out of danger. But we have made a start, and that's something. During the year, as usual, we, in this office, have tried to act as your reporter on the Farm Front, bringing to you as briefly as possible the news, the information and the interpretation of trends and regulations of concern to farmers and their families.

Perhaps we have not succeeded very well in interpreting rules and regulations and trends. In fact, I don't begin to understand them all; but, we have done the best we could and I want again to thank you for the fine way in which you have received our farm news and, the excellent reports which you have given to your rural readers.

Whether we shall be able to continue to give you the same type of service next year as we have in 1942 depends on how well we can hold our organization together in the face of war demands. You may be sure, however, that we shall continue to serve you as best we can. We feel, as you do, that good farming and the efficient production of food is a fundamental thing in winning this war and we know that if we do not produce the food for our soldiers and for our own families, no one else will produce it.

And so again, I want to thank you for the generous service you have rendered your farmer readers. Your cooperation with us has been all that we could ask and I think that you are doing as much as any agency to build a better rural life in North Carolina.

With best wishes for the Christmas Season and for the coming year, I am

Sincerely, FRANK JETER, Editor Agricultural Extension Service

Men Over 38 Years Face Call To Home Guard

According to a United Press dispatch early this week, Col. Henry F. Rhodes, regional field officer of the selective service and the war manpower commission, has predicted that men over 38 years of age and capable of military service may be inducted into a home guard within the next six months.

In an address to the Eastern Pennsylvania Association of Foremen's clubs, Col. Rhodes said that although the new policy of the combined selective service - war manpower commission was still undecided as far as public information was concerned "older men are going to be called to war."
