60,000 Dressings

Made By Franklin Women
Since Jan. 12; Service
Pins Awarded

Mrs. James E. Perry, chairman of production of Macon county Red Cross chapter, has reported that 60,000 surgical dressings have been made in the Franklin work room since January 12. "Of these all have been shipped except 25,200 which are awaiting shipping directions," said Mrs. Perry.

"While our women have done splendidly and the record of the chapter for production is good for the number of women working, we are in great need of more workers to produce the chapter's wartime quota. There is need of more women who are willing to make sacrifice of time from other duties or of their leisure time to do this work of mercy to help our wounded on the battlefronts," she added.

It is hoped that there will be hearty response to Mrs. Perry's appeal. There are already some business women who work all day and yet find time to put in a few hours a week. There are many mothers and housewives who could give time each week if they realized the great need of the soldiers—their own sons and neighbors perhaps, who are suffering wherever the flag flies.

MERCHANT MARINE SAYS
RED CROSS SWEATER IS WARM IN RUSSIA

Last Saturday morning on a news broadcast from London the newsmen interviewed two merchant marines who were resting in England after making several trips to Russia with supplies. In response to a question about the cold, the marine said the northern route to Russia was very, very cold but he added—"We had plenty of good warm clothes. The day we sailed from an American port we were issued Red Cross, hand-knitted sweaters, helmets and mufflers." There was a smile in his voice and he emphasized the words "hand-knitted."

One Copperhill woman who heard this broadcast and who is a Red Cross knitter, says that she knitted six inches on her sweater that day—even if Saturday was her house cleaning day!
