Ledford Resigns

As Federation Manager; Thomas Assumes Duties

W. R. Ledford, manager of the Franklin Farmers Federation store for the past five years, has resigned this week on account of his health and expects to return to the work on his farm near Prentiss.

Mr. Ledford has served the company and the people of Macon county in a very efficient and capable manner during these five years and will be greatly missed by both.

J. Harry Thomas, assistant manager for four and one-half years, will become the active manager of the Federation here. He is a native of Franklin and well-known throughout the county and knows the needs of the people. The committee of the warehouse, in electing him, feel that he is exceptionally qualified to serve the people in the same efficient manner the store has been operated under since its opening, and that they are very fortunate in securing him. The others employed at the store will be retained as his assistants.

The Franklin warehouse committee consists of Carl Slagie, E. V. Ammons, Ed B. Byrd, J. R. Holbrooks, James L. Young, J. I. Vinson, J. S. Conley, Jerry Franklin, Lawrence Ramsey, Robert Bennett, Charles W. Henderson and Ardian Howell.

pital, one of several operated by the AAF Personnel Distribution Command, he will be under the care of Army physicians and also will participate in the physical training and vocational activities of the Convalescent Services of the hospital.

In Macon County 4-H club members and vocational students brought their hoes, rakes, and shovels and spent the day looking for borers and clearing the grass in a ten-acre apple orchard.

Eating more eggs at this season will have the double-bared effect of bolstering the wartime diet and utilizing a plentiful food.

About May 1 give all sheep, except lambs, individual doses of Cu-Nic. Keep a mixture of 1 part of powdered phenothiazine and 12 parts of salt before the sheep during the grazing season.

The first state-wide dairy show for Negro 4-H club members and New Farmers of America will be held in early September at Greensboro.

In honoring the memory of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, our late President, may we earnestly pledge ourselves toward winning the war and bringing about lasting peace for which he so diligently worked.

The Bank of Franklin

Member F. D. I. C.

We bow our heads in grief over the passing of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, our great leader, but let us pledge to his successor our everlasting support and confidence.

"Thirty good years, Mother"

That star represents twenty-five years of service, the bar another five... altogether, thirty years that Jim has been working on the Southern Railway System.

"Thirty good years," Jim says.

Because in the years since 1915 he has seen his Southland lay the foundations for a rich, full, abundant economy.

He has seen agriculture, industry, mining and commerce team up with his own Southern Railway System to get things done.

And when war came, he was part of the Southern team that broke all records in moving men and materials swiftly and surely on their way to the fighting fronts.

Jim's proud of his thirty years. So are we. But Jim knows that even greater accomplishments are still to come.

And we share his faith in a great future for the postwar South... for we know that the next thirty years will be good years, too.
