Child Labor Law Not Affected By School Law

"Interpretation and enforcement of the Child Labor Law has not been effected by the amendment to the compulsory school attendance law," Forrest н. Shuford, state commi of labor, said today in a memorandum to all county superin-endents of welfare. "The Child Labor Law provides that minors 14 and 15 years of age cannot be employed during the hours when school is in session. The only exception to the provisions of this law is for minors who are employed in domestic or agricultural work under the supervision or direction of their parents," Shuford stated. The amendment by the Gen-eral Assembly of 1945 of the compulsery school attendance law provides that during the 12 months following July 1, 1945, children between the ages of 7 and 15 shall attend school. On July 1, 1946 and thereafter, children between 7 and 16 must attend school. For the duration of six months following the end of World War II, children living on farms or working in commercial fishing or fisheries are exempted and superintendents of schools may excuse any male child 14 to 16 years of age for employment that is permitted by the labor laws of

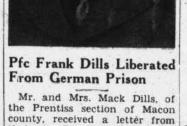

Deitz Liberated; At Moore Hospital

S. Sgt. Wade Reitz of West's Mill, Macon county, liberated prisoner of war, has arrived at Moore General hospital after two years of overseas service, six months of which he spent the stalags of Germany. in Still thin from the starvation diet on which he existed during his internment Sergeant Deitz is slowly gaining back his weight. A six-footer, Deitz weighed 185 pounds when captured and was a 119-pound "scarecrow" when liberated by the 44th division April 2. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Deitz, he has been in the army more than four years and left for overseas duty in 1943. Serving with the 30th division of the first army, Deitz saw ac-tion in France, Belgium, Holland, and Germany. He was fighting inside the Siegfried line last October as a squad leader when his company was isolated by an enemy attack. The Ger-mans closed in with a bayonet charge and cut the, outfit to pieces except for the 17 pris-oners captured.

Sergeant Deitz was wounded in the arm during the attack and was immediately interned in a hospital in Western Germany. This was the first of eight hospitals he was to see before being freed by the allied breakthrough. As the pressure increased on the western front the Germans moved prisoners her east.

their son, Pfc. Frank Dills, who was reported by the War Department to be missing in action in Luxembourg, on December 22, 1944, stating that he was well and happy to be back with his outfit again. He writes his mother that, "It has been a long time, Mama, since I had a chance to write you, but I hope you will let these few words make up the empty space. I know now that Thorpe, of Franklin for this I will be able to let you hear from me more often. Mama it sure does make me feel good to be once again in a good old mess hall and eat till I'm full and know that I can get three meals a day. I know you was worried about me while I was prisoner, but now you can quit it, for Uncle Sam has got me again."

Pfc. Dills, who was serving with the 44th engineering unit in Germany, was sent to overseas duty in March of the past year. He entered the armed forces in December 1942 and took his training at Camp McCoy, Wis., Fort Knox, Ky., Libenton, Tenn., and at Camp Breckenridge, Ky.

This letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Dills was the first news, except for a card saying that he was a prisoner of the Ger-man War, since he was cap-tured in December. He now

Macon County Bond Sales Lagging As Never Before

BOND SALES FAR BELOW QUOTA

In the Seventh War Loan, which began on May 14, Macon county, according to the last report received from the Federal Reserve Bank, has sold $22,687.50 of E Bonds against its quota of $168,000, and has sold $34,861.50 of all issues of bonds against its over all quota of $218,000. In the report of sales made we are credited with all bond sales made beginning with April 9.

According to the report, the people of Macon county are buying fewer bonds during this drive than they normally buy without a drive being on. We are simply giving these facts to the public in order that they may know just what the county is doing toward meeting its quota. On no previous drives has this county failed to meet either its E bond quota or its over all quota, and it is hoped that the quota may still be met, notwithstanding the pic-ture presented by the above figures.

Chairmen Say Maconians Will Rally To Cause They Believe

The chairmen of the Seventh War Loan Drive, Henry W. Cabe and Gilmer A. Jones, state that to date there has been a total of $22,687 in the E series against the quota of $168,000, sold in Macon county, and that so far very little interest is being manifested, despite the fact that this is one of the most critical periods of the war, and never in all the previous drives is it as important to buy bonds as in this present one.

Despite the lack of interest in buying bonds, the chairmen feel that the citizens of Macon county will wake up to the fact that we must not let our boys down, and that we will again meet our quota as we have in the six preivous drives.

Two young army officers from Moore General Hospital, after having done their share, and more, in actual combat, are coming to Franklin on next Monday, May 28, in behalf of the 7th War Loan Drive. These men will make short talks at the Macon Theatre immediate-ly following the afternoon show and between the first and second evening shows.

This picture is one that lays bare the facts of actual combat in the Pacific area, and will give us a clear insight into what our boys are undergoing in combat. With June 6 being the first anniversary of D-Day, it has therefore been proclaimed as Movie Day at the Macon Theatre. All you have to do is BUY A BOND" between Friday, June 1, and Wednesday, June 6, and be admitted FREE to the Macon Theatre to see "Music for Millions", starring Margaret O'Brien and Jose Sturbi, it has been announced by Mrs. Agnes Howard, manager.

this state. 'Considering the two laws together, one can readily see that during the coming fiscal year minors 14 years of age, since they cannot work under the provisions of the Child Labor Law, cannot, as heretofore, quit school and roam the streets. On and after July 1, 1946 this will be true of all minors up to 16 years of age."

Traveling by train, bus, and foot, sometimes with other prisoners and several times alone except for his guard, Deitz saw his share of German cities and countryside. He passed through Leipzig and Berlin heading east, and when the Russians began their final push to victory his captors herded him westward again.

Sergeant Deitz had been out of his hospital bed six days when the Russian threat necessitated the Germans moving back toward the western front. With the transportation facilities bombed out, the prisoners had to be marched back-a 37day journey. Deitz was interned Bad Dard when liberated. He arrived back in the States May 1 and reached Moore General hospital May 11.
