

Weekly Roundup Of OPA Prices, And Rationing News

For Week of September 24
Meats and Fats: Red stamps, V2, W2, X2, Y2, Z2, now valid, expire September 30. A1, B1, C1, D1, E1, now valid, expire October 31. F1, G1, H1, J1, K1, now valid, expire November 30. L1, M1, N1, P1, Q1, now valid, expire December 31. R1, S1, T1, U1, V1, become valid October 1, expire January 31, 1946.

Sugar: Sugar stamp No. 38 now valid, expires December 31. Shoes: Airplane stamps Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, now good.

Five More Red Stamps Good
Five more red stamps in War Ration Book Four will become valid next Monday, October 1, it was announced by War Price and Rationing Board.

They reminded that red stamps V2, W2, X2, Y2, and Z2, now valid, would expire at midnight Sunday, September 30. The new valid stamps, good until January 31, 1946 will be R1, S1, T1, U1, and V1, the chairman said.

Tire Situation Still Acute
Demand for passenger car tires has increased so rapidly since the lifting of gasoline rationing that it will be many months before motorists get all the new tires they need, OPA District Director L. W. Driscoll announced in Charlotte.

He said that unfilled applications for passenger car tires are at an all-time high, while inventories are at an all-time low the country over.

It is expected that the backlog of approved but unfilled applications may total one million for the country by the end of September.

"These are all applications that have been approved, but local boards can't issue certificates for their purchase because passenger tire quotas have been exhausted," he said.

This explains why local boards are forced to turn down thousands of tire applications.

Cheese Point Value At Zero

The War Price and Rationing Board reminded housewives yesterday that all cheese point values have been reduced to zero.

"This probably heralds the removal of cheese from the rationing list," he said, while reminding that technically, they remained under rationing restrictions although point values had been set at zero.

Control Of Building Costs

Some details on OPA's most far-reaching peace-time price control program have been released by OPA regional officials in Atlanta with the declaration "building material costs must and will be stabilized."

OPA asserted, "One look at the record of what happened after the last war is enough to show why this program is so vital: 68,000 mortgage foreclosures on homes in 1926; 97,000 in 1927; 116,000 in 1928; 134,000 in 1929."

Commenting on these figures a few days ago, OPA Administrator Chester Bowles said, "That's what happens when a building boom goes bust."

State College Hints To Farm Homemakers

(By Ruth Current)
Home economists say that such freshly harvested Irish potatoes as those now on the market offer more vitamin C than those coming on the markets from winter storage. Serve potatoes any way you wish but cook them with care because this saves vitamin C as well as B-vitamins and minerals which this vegetable offers. Do not cook large and small ones together. The small ones will be overcooked.

When you do find sheets for sale, don't be flustered by the mere sight of them and snatch them up, regardless. Look for a label giving size, and remember that "torn size" means the size before hemming. Too short sheets like too short blankets are uncomfortable and necessarily subject to more strain than those which are long enough to tuck in firmly and, for the top sheet, turn back far enough to protect the blankets or other bedclothes.

JOB FOR MANY SEEN AS WESTERN FIRM EXPANDS

The Paraffine Companies, Inc., Emeryville, Calif., is doing its share to build jobs and better living standards by an early start on four to five million dollar expansion of its 1,600-man linoleum, paint and roofing plant.

This expansion will provide jobs for hundreds of construction workers, a spokesman says, adding: "We also have hundreds of permanent factory jobs open."

THEY WANT FOR XMAS . . .

Servicemen in the tropics who have received red sweaters from doting homefolks, and those in U. S. to whom Santa has brought such beautiful but anti-regulation gifts as purple silk pajamas, will appreciate steps taken by Standard Oil (Ind.).

Veterans home from service selected articles for the Christmas packages which the company is mailing to 2,000 employees overseas and 1,000 serving in this country.

For overseas the vets specified luxury foods, toilet articles, cigarette lighter, playing cards and a book. Domestic packages contain a photo album, lighter, playing cards and special food treats.

Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing Co. will soon deliver the first air-conditioned trackless electric trolley.

from Washington empowering regional OPA officials to set community dollar-and-cent ceiling prices on construction materials and building costs in each area. These will be decided upon after a survey has been completed to determine what costs need to be flat-priced and where.

An "unprecedented boom" in building is anticipated, according to OPA, and regional officials said that before long a person could consult a chart in his area and determine how much it will cost to modernize a bathroom, put a new roof on the garage or barn, or build a whole house.

Since V-J Day . . .

In its administration of funds, the National War Fund has always had great elasticity. As the peace of war shifted and as areas of need changed, the program was at once readjusted. Quarterly budgetary requests from member agencies were constantly submitted to Lend-Lease, UNRRA and a dozen other governmental agencies, to see if they could carry the burden, thus relieving the National War Fund from the necessity of doing so. The contributor could be assured that his gift was used from day to day and month to month to meet that need which the officers of the National War Fund considered most worthy in the light of the whole situation created by war conditions as they then existed.

From the very inception of the National War Fund, North Carolina has had an active part in the determination of policies and administration through such men as Robert M. Hanes, one of the eight Vice-Presidents, and Major L. P. McLendon, member of the Board of Directors.

These men worked closely with national leaders, Mr. Winthrop W. Aldrich, President of the Chase National Bank and President of the National War Fund, together with Mr. Gerard Swope, former Chairman of the Board, and the General Electric Company, and Budget Committee Chairman of the National War Fund, assuring wisdom in administration and prompt action in the effective operation of the Fund.

This is a report on the changes in policies of the National War Fund and our local Community War Funds, brought about by the considered judgment of these leaders in the light of victory in Europe and the Far East.

Information And History Of American Railroads

The system of Standard Time in use throughout the world was sponsored and put into effect in this country at the stroke of 12 o'clock noon on November 18, 1883 by the General Time Convention of Railway Managers, which later became the American Railway Association and then the Association of American Railroads. Prior to that date railroads operated their trains on more than sixty different standards, based largely on the time used by cities through which the trains were operated or the time used by cities where the railroads had headquarters.

The Southern Railway System trained 6,000 soldier-railroaders during World War II for service overseas "in a theatre of operations." This included four railway operating battalions and the personnel of a replacement school.

Railroad purchases of fuel, material and supplies used in connection with their operations totaled $1,610,529,000 in 1944, the greatest amount for any one year since 1923.

The longest curve on the Southern Railway System skirts Lake Pontchartrain approaching New Orleans, La. This curve, varying from four to six minutes in degree, is almost exactly nine miles in length. The longest railroad curve in the United States is 9.45 miles in length and is located on the Illinois Central Railroad.

Railroads paid 19.6 cents in taxes for each dollar of revenue received in 1944 compared with 9.5 cents in 1938.

The highest point on the Southern Railway System is at Balsam, N. C., 3,351 feet above sea level.

A new petroleum product, in the form of a yellowish powder made from crude petroleum, is being used to speed up the production of penicillin. A small amount of the substance increases the rate so greatly that some makers have reported trebling of production rates with existing equipment.

The new petroleum powder, named ultrawet, also is used to improve the quality of fire-fighting foam and as an ingredient of the all-purpose soap furnished American fighting men all over the world.
