Sees Earth For First Time Since Early December

The week-end rains and rising temperatures were a welcome change, washing the landscape free from ice and snow, and giving Highlanders a chance to see and walk on "the good earth" for the first time since early in December.

The weather for the entire month of December, being the worst in many years, made even a rainy spell pleasurable.

LITTLE AFRICAN GETS HIS FOUNTAIN PEN

The little boy in Arraca, Gold Coast of Africa, who wrote the advertising division of the State News Bureau recently asking for a pen and "eyes wearing glasses" will get his pen. Mrs. Max Abernethy, of Raleigh, who read about his unusual request, is sending a fountain pen to the little African, who gave as his address the Presbyterian Day school.

"Us Presbyterians have got to stick together," said Mrs. Abernethy.

LARGER SEWERAGE PLANTS NEEDED IN MANY AREAS

Additional sewerage or sewage treatment is needed at 13,915 of the 16,752 communities of all sizes in the United States, according to results of the national inventory of needs for sanitation facilities prepared by the sanitary engineers division of the U. S. public health service. Estimated total cost of the entire program, which includes new sewer systems, sewage treatment plants, and sewer extensions, amounts to $2,255,150,000.

STATEMENT TO THE PEOPLE

I am very much disappointed in the people of the town of Franklin that would not receive our boys that went across in foreign countries to fight for the freedom of the American citizens. I had an instance come to hand the 7th day of January of 1946.

Two ex-servicemen, buying a business in the middle of the fiscal year, were required to pay a full year's license, although the year's license already had been paid by the previous owner.

I am asking you, Macon County citizens, do you call this fair and square to the boys that we sent across?

I think if the County Commissioners and the Town Board would give this a thought, they would refund these two boys the money which they paid.

Many Persons Want To Buy Small Farms In North Carolina

Raleigh. — The farm-buying boom, which has been worrying economists these past few months, is reflected in current mail at the advertising division of the State News Bureau.

From 100 to 150 letters per day are being received by the division from persons living outside North Carolina and wanting to buy farms. Most of them are from people living in cold-weather states, notably the middle west, Pennsylvania, and New England, and a majority of them want small acreage. Quite a few believe that there are vast acreages of cheap waste land upon which they can settle.

The division is sending them agricultural literature and accompanying it with the sobering and realistic booklet issued by State College extension service entitled, "How to Select a Farm in North Carolina."

A list of the more serious prospects also is being distributed to chambers of commerce and others so that local follow-up may be expedited.

Sharp objects should not be used to loosen the frost and ice from the evaporator in trying to defrost the refrigerator quickly, as the coils may be punctured. Let the ice melt and fall.
