A Big Step Forward

To three-year-old Joseph Lee of Boston, Mass., this is the biggest step of his life. Recovering from a crippling attack of infantile paralysis at Children's Hospital, little Joe is shown starting the long road back to active health with the help of physical therapist Deborah Kinsman and a pair of miniature crutches.

Your contribution to the annual March of Dimes will help thousands of others like Joe receive best available treatment.

Here Are Tips On Best Ways To Buy Meat

There are many fine points to buying meat intelligently. The following questions and answers are offered by Jessie Alice Cline, home economist, with the thought that they may be interesting and helpful to home-makers who want to know "what's what" when they go to the meat market.

Q. How do similar cuts of pork, veal, lamb and beef compare as to size?

A. The beef cuts are largest, then veal, then pork, then lamb.

Q. What cuts of veal, pork and lamb correspond to the porterhouse and T-bone steaks of beef?

A. Veal loin chops, pork loin chops, lamb loin chops.

Q. What cut of beef or veal corresponds to a center cut slice of ham?

A. The round steak (either beef or veal—the veal round steak may be called a "cutlet").

Q. What effect does aging have on beef?

A. Aging improves the flavor and tenderness of beef. Only high quality beef is aged, because the meat must have a good fat covering to prevent evaporation.

Q. Why is it not required that pork be graded—although beef, veal, lamb, and mutton must be stamped with a grade?

A. Pork is more uniform in age than other meats, when slaughtered, which means there is less variation in quality. Government standards have not been established for grading pork cuts sold at retail.

Q. What does the term "quality" mean, when used with regard to meats?

A. Quality in meat includes all the characteristics which affect the palatability of the meat when it is cooked, provided it is cooked correctly. These characteristics include the firmness and strength of the muscle fibers and connective tissue, the amount and character of the juices and extractives, the marbling of the lean with fat, and the color of the lean and fat (which should be typical of the particular kind of meat being judged).

Expand

N. C. Deer Transplanting Project

Raleigh.—The North Carolina Division of Game and Inland Fisheries is expanding its deer trapping and transplanting project throughout the state to include the redistribution of 1,600 deer during the next four years. Concurrently with approval of release sites in all counties west of Buncombe, 175 deer traps will be placed on the Mt. Mitchell and Pisgah National Game Preserves by April.

The project is being executed under the supervision of the Division of Game and Inland Fisheries through federal support under the Pittman-Robertson act. Federal reimbursement, according to the division's report, covers 75 per cent of the cost from the wildlife restoration funds administered through the United States Fish and Wildlife service. The remaining 25 per cent is to be drawn from the state's appropriation.

To effect the expanding program, Commissioner John D. Findlay has proposed that the Board of Conservation and Development take action during its July session to close all deer trapping in upper Piedmont and Western North Carolina. He claims this imperative since our harvest each year has taken at least the surplus leaving no chance for the increase necessary to bring about maximum stocking. In addition he has recommended a 47-day deer season for taking buck in the eastern counties.

PLAN MUSICAL PROGRAM, CAKE WALK AT COWEE

A "womanless wedding" will be presented at the Chapel school next Thursday, January 31, at 7:30 p. m. for the benefit of the infantile paralysis fund. All are invited. The admission will be 15 cents and 10 cents.

Wyoming has only one representative in congress.

Ideas Offered To Those Planning Church Suppers

When it comes your turn to plan a church supper, or provide an idea for food to serve at a club social—one of these main dishes will be more than acceptable, says Jessie Alice Cline, home economist. They are all tasty and satisfying, but also economical and easy to prepare. The recipes may be increased for larger groups, if desired.

HAM LOAF (Serves 30)

3 pounds ground smoked ham
3 pounds ground fresh pork
3 eggs
1 large can evaporated milk
1 cup cracker crumbs

Combine all ingredients thoroughly. Pack into two meat loaf pans (5 by 9 inches) and bake in moderate oven (300 deg. F.) for 2 hours. This may be served with a cream sauce containing chopped hard-cooked eggs, or a horseradish cream sauce, or chili sauce may be passed.

MEAT BALLS WITH RICE, SPAGHETTI OR NOODLES (Serves 25)

2 1/2 pounds ground beef, veal or lamb
3 cups fine, dry crumbs
1 cup grated onion
1 tablespoon cornstarch
Few grains allspice and nutmeg

1 1/2 tablespoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
4 eggs, slightly beaten
3 cups whole milk
1 cup lard or drippings
3/4 cup flour

2 quarts soup stock or canned consommé
3 cups tomato juice.
Mix well the ground meat, crumbs, onion, cornstarch, seasonings, eggs and milk. Shape into small balls, using a teaspoon for drippings. (Make cranberry relish.

about 100 balls.) Brown the balls in the hot fat in frying-pan, doing a few at a time and removing when browned. Blend flour with fat remaining in pan. Stir in stock and bring to a hard boil, stirring constantly. Add more seasoning if needed. Add tomato juice and meat balls. Cover and simmer for 30 minutes. Serve on fluffy white rice, spaghetti or noodles.

VEAL AND HAM SHORTCAKES (Serves 12)

Baking powder biscuit dough
6 tablespoons drippings
1 tablespoon grated onion
3/4 cup flour

1 1/2 quarts milk (6 cups)
2 whole cloves
2 bay leaves
3 cups diced cooked veal
2 cups diced cooked ham
1 cup cooked peas

Make rich biscuit dough, using 1 quart flour and adding 1/4 cup chopped parsley to dry ingredients. Roll dough 1/4-inch thick and cut in 24 rounds. Place 12 rounds on baking sheet; spread with softened margarine; top with remaining rounds of dough. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) for 12 to 15 minutes.

Make sauce by melting fat, cooking onion in it, blending in flour, and adding milk gradually while stirring constantly. Add cloves and bay leaves, and bring to a boil, still stirring. Remove cloves and bay leaves, and add veal, ham and peas. Heat to serving temperature.

Separate hot shortcakes, place lower halves on plates. Cover with filling, top with upper halves of shortcakes and then more filling. Garnish with tart jelly or spiced fruit, or serve spoon for drippings. (Make cranberry relish.
