This Winter At Highlands Mild, Old Paper Suggest

Browsing through old newspaper files in the library, we find that this winter with all its snows, is mild compared to that of 1886, when "Mr. Rideout, famous for his accurate statements, reported 32 inches of snow measured in several places on level ground, and Mr. H. M. Bascom reported 36 inches."

The following items also were gleaned at random from the 1891 winter issues of The Highlands Star, edited by the Coe brothers, and from a later issue of The Mountain Eagle, edited by the late Prof. T. G. Harbison:

H. M. Paul, lately of Main, has purchased the Heacock farm. H. L. Rideout started for the Land of Flowers this morning where he will spend the winter. Highlands Normal College, private and non-sectarian. Fall term began October 2nd. Winter term begins December 29th, 1891. Thos. G. Harbison, Ph.D. James Rideout, proprietor of the Satulah House, has had some fine stationery printed.
