Special religious services will be held at the Walnut Creek schoolhouse Sunday, March 31, conducted by Salvation Army personnel. One service will be held at 11 o'clock in the morning, and another at 2 in the afternoon. A picnic dinner will be held on the grounds at noon. A feature of the services, it was said, will be the singing and instrumental music.

Major Cecil Brown, Capt. Lillian Blackburn, Capt. Bobby Douglass, and Lt. Marguerite Morton, four young women missionaries from the Salvation Army's mountain mission corps at Waynesville will be in charge.

A new USDA miscellaneous publication No. 589, called "Getting Started in Farming" is now available free to farmers.

Burnette, Formerly Stationed Here, Is Given Army Honor

Lt. Col. Francis Grady Burnette, formerly with the Nantahala National forest, stationed in Franklin, has been awarded the Fourth Service command certificate of commendation, and is entitled to wear the army commendation ribbon, according to an announcement in Atlanta.

Since 1942, Col. Burnette has been serving as chief of the officers' branch of the military personnel division at Fourth Service command headquarters. The certificate was awarded for "exceptionally meritorious service" in his administrative post in Atlanta.

The colonel, who left Franklin about eight or nine years ago, served in the Nantahala forest headquarters for several years as an engineering draftsman. A reserve officer, he has been on active duty since 1940.
