

'Army Day' Is Proclaimed By Mayor Angel

April 6 is Army Day. The day is expected to be observed by Americans throughout the world, and Mayor T. W. Angel, Jr., this week issued a proclamation designating Saturday as Army Day in Franklin, and calling on the people of the town to observe it "in a fitting manner".

His proclamation follows: "Whereas, our army has been victorious over the forces of aggression and evil, and have brought peace to our country. "Whereas, the citizens of Franklin are grateful to the men and women who fought, worked, suffered and even gave their lives that the victory might be ours. "Whereas, it is entirely fitting that we dedicate one day to the Army who stand, and have always stood, in the strong defense of our country. "And whereas, April 6 has been celebrated as Army Day—I do proclaim it as such for Franklin, and direct that Army Day be celebrated in a fitting manner."

Mrs. Julia Key Taken By Death At Georgia Home

Funeral services and burial of Mrs. Julia Key, who died March 21, were conducted at the Union Baptist church at Helen, in White county, Georgia, according to word received here. Mrs. Key's husband, Newton Silas Key, was born in Macon County, and spent his young manhood in or near Franklin.

Mrs. Key was twice married. She and her first husband, Lester Chastain, had three children, Ethel, Lovadia, and Hazel. There were also three children by the second marriage, Ernest Hershel, and Mack. All six survive their mother.

The Rev. Mr. Davis, the pastor, and the Rev. Mr. Plasket, of Cornelia, conducted the final rites.
