

Applications For Farm Buildings To Be Filed With AAA

Under the Veteran's housing program, designed primarily to furnish housing for veterans, restrictions have been placed on the construction of buildings costing more than $400. Robert Fulton, chairman of the Macon County AAA committee, said this week in explaining that the main objective of the restrictions at this time is to get low-cost living units built as rapidly as possible.

"Applications for the construction of all farm buildings in Macon County should be filed at the local AAA office," Mr. Fulton said, "and the final approval of the applications rests with the State AAA committee in Raleigh."

"Data such as materials needed, total cost of all new materials, labor costs, and the necessity for the building will be requested," Mr. Fulton explained.

The AAA chairman pointed out that approval of the proposed construction will be based on whether it is essential to increasing or maintaining production of food on the farm; whether present facilities on the farm are being utilized to maximum capacity; and whether the proposed construction will be fully utilized upon completion.

The Western North Carolina Shorthorn Breeders association held its annual meeting and farm tour with visits to the following Buncombe County farms: T. C. Luther, Tony Candler, H. G. Glance and Cassius B. Roberson.

State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

Q. What is the best means of controlling the cabbage or "terrapin" bug?

A. James T. Conner, Jr., new extension entomologist at State college, says that the relatively new sabadilla dust in 10 and 20 per cent solutions for application now to cabbage, collard, turnip and other leafy crops is the best controlling agent. The 10 per cent dust is best for infestations by older bugs. The 20 per cent dust for newer infestations. Dusting now will control the bugs which strike hardest during June, July and August.

Q. May home-grown strawberry plants be used successfully in this state?

A. Yes, decidedly. Growers in the Chadburn-Wallace area lost more than $100,000 in this year's crop by importing strains of which proved to be sterile but which had been advertised as "improved" types of established varieties. Home-grown plants will be highly satisfactory provided inspections for the control of disease and insects are properly made.

Q. Why are North Carolina poultrymen having trouble getting chicks from the Rice Leghorn farm in Missouri?

A. Because that firm does not yet have the proper labels or pullorum control certificates from the Missouri Livestock Sanitary Board. North Carolina law requires certification that chicks brought into the state shall have less than two per cent pullorum infection. The same requirements are applicable to state hatcheries.

POLITICAL ADVERTISING

To the Democratic Voters of Macon County:

As you see in another column of The Franklin Press, I am seeking the nomination for Representative in the next General Assembly of North Carolina. Before I decided to make this race I was asked by good citizens of almost every district in the county to make the race. I am 63 years old and for 42 years I have voted and worked for the Democratic Party in Macon County and anywhere that party felt the need of my service, even two or three trips to Raleigh on my own pocket-book. And as a result of such work and cooperation with the Democratic Party, I have lived to see our good state climb to a much higher place among the other states of the Union.

I know and you know that a Representative can do only a limited amount during a session of the Legislature and I have been asked many questions about what I would do should I go. And I feel that it's as much in what I don't do or undo as what I do in new legislation. My answer to some was that it would be better for my wife to tie me in the chimney corner during the Legislature than to pass some, not all, of the Laws that have been passed the last 12 to 15 years.

Should I be the successful candidate, I shall feel that I am a servant of the people of Macon County and shall call together a representative body of citizens from every district in the county to the courthouse between the election and the meeting of the assembly that we may discuss the various needs of the county, that I may know what the people really want, then go to Raleigh with a determination to pass some of the most needful, constructive laws. I have been asked many times how I stand on the following questions:

No. 1. Old Age and Dependent Children's Assistance.

Ans. I favor making up budget to properly care for all on the list, then adding to the budget enough to care for emergency cases that come up between the time of making out the budget.

No. 2. In Regard to Sheriff's Pay Should the Office Change Hands.

Ans. I had nothing to do with its passing and shall leave it as it is, regardless of who may be elected sheriff.

No. 3. The Question of Beer and Wine.

Ans. I believe our Governor said he would give us a referendum on beer and wine six months after peace was declared. The terrible guns of war have hushed their roar and I can't see any reason for waiting longer and I favor a referendum on beer and wine. Now, not sometime in the far future, let the people say what they want.

No. 4. School Bus Drivers.

Ans. I am in favor and shall fight for a school bus driver not to be paid less than $50 per month. That said driver shall be 21 or more years old, of good morals, and a total abstainer from strong drink.

No. 5. Roads.

Ans. I shall do all that within one lies to get a gravel road through all the communities, large and small in Macon County at the earliest possible time. We all know that the SHC has done wonders in building roads for the last 20 years, or more. Also we know the last four years we all had to give all our attention to the winning of the war, but that is over and these rural roads should have something done and done now. And leave the highways alone, only the patching crew. The products of our farms and forests are needed; let's have a road to market.

No. 6. Teacher Retirement Fund.

Ans. While the school teachers only get a meager living while on active duty in the school room I feel that they should have more than that $1 per day retirement that should read at least $1.50 per day, and $2 would be more like it.

No. 7. Board of Education.

Ans. The way I feel about this is: that these five men should be of our best. They should know the value of a dollar spent in a school, building, roofing, lumber, roads, grading, house seats, school supplies, or for any other school purposes whatsoever, and as they are going to have to spend a lot of time in the next two to four years working out our school program, I favor paying them for every hour spent on their official duty in behalf of the school children of Macon County. We have a big problem before us. No one man in the county or out is competent to spend a half million dollars of tax money, but six level heads with the hearty cooperation of the citizens of the county can carry it out to a final and glorious conclusion that will be a monument to our good county and place us up in rank with other good counties of the State.

In closing let me say I will be glad to answer any and all questions and I hope to your satisfaction. In order that you may know my feelings toward North Carolina, I give you the following:

Since back in the days of Aycock old Tar Heel has done its best. I hardly think that she's surpassed in North, South, or West with education, health industry, highways, farming. Let's keep her marching on. Here's hoping that all get registered properly on the books. And that you go to the polls and cast your ballot. If for me, I will do my best to serve you to the very best of my ability. You, the voters, prescribe and I will take the medicine, even though it be bitter. (Closed with my theme song) I want to go there, I do.

J. M. RABY.

IT'S HARD TO TELL which is prouder of this Guernsey heifer, A. B. Slagle, who presented it, or Fred (Bo) Setser, to whom it was presented. Young Setser, 15, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Setser, of Cartoogechaye. The calf, "Belmont View Laddie's Reba", was sired by "Riegald Dale Emory's Laddie", while the dam was "Belmont View Molly".

State College Hints To Farm Homemakers

By RUTH CURRENT

Lost buttons, especially those torn out of garments, add greatly to the burden of family mending in many households. Spring and summer clothes of thin fabric are likely to suffer most from buttons that pull out, taking some of the fabric underneath with them. A simple way to prevent such damage, clothing specialists suggest, is to stitch tape on the inside of the garment under the button line. The stitched reinforcement does not show when the garment is buttoned and distributes the strain so that the small area of cloth to which the button is attached does not take the full pull. Stitch down each edge of the tape, then sew buttons through the center part of the tape.

On rayon clothes such a tape will prevent the damage that often comes from pressing too hard or with too hot an iron under buttons.

Rural electrification specialists advise that electric irons always should be disconnected properly after use to keep them in good working order. Pull on the plug that fits into the convenient outlet in the wall, never on the cord. Pulling on the cord may loosen the connections within the plug or even pull out the wires. A loose connection may either blow a fuse or cause excessive heat, which in time will ruin the plug.

If the iron cord is detachable, connect and disconnect it at the convenience outlet rather than at the iron. Disconnecting the cord from the iron while the current is on may cause sparking. This in time will ruin the plug and may require replacing the connector terminals on the iron—a repair job.

DAN K. MOORE Candidate for Solicitor

DAN K. MOORE

We think the voters—and particularly the veteran voters—of Macon County should know something about the service record of DAN K. MOORE, one of the candidates for Solicitor in the coming primary.

DAN MOORE is a married man of forty years of age. He had been practicing law for sixteen years when, about three years ago, notwithstanding the fact that he was a married man with two children, he volunteered for service in the U. S. Army.

He spent approximately two years in the service as an enlisted man, a large part of it at the battle front in Europe, and has only recently returned to his law practice which he broke up to enter the service of his country.

MR. MOORE is an able lawyer and a gentleman, as his father, Judge Fred Moore, was before him. He is the only one of the candidates for solicitor who saw service in this war. He worked two years for his country on an enlisted man's pay.

We felt that when they knew the facts the people of Macon County would want to give a World War II veteran the preference we think he deserves.

This advertisement was not solicited by Mr. Moore. It is sponsored and paid for by Veteran supporters of Macon County.
