Wiss, First Speaker, To Discuss India In Sunday Talk

Mr. Wiss has taken approximately 150 kodachrome slides with which his talk will be illustrated.

An architect, now on the faculty of Clemson college, Mr. Wiss has "kodachromed" through the West in this country and through Great Britain and Norway, as well as India, and has a collection of Indian slides for this talk, carefully selected for artistic value and for their portrayal of the architecture and inhabitants of that country of such great news interest at the present moment.

The talk will be made in the museum building at 8:30. There will be no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.
