It is not required of us to maintain separate accounts for each individual participant in the fund. In a similar case we are handling the investments for the cemetery in one combined fund and the cemetery itself keeps a subsidiary record as to the individual participants, showing their interest in the fund and, of course, allocating earnings of the fund to the participants in accordance with their respective interests.

"I am enclosing information with respect to the common trust fund account operated by Wachovia Bank and Trust company for the benefit of its trust accounts, the primary purpose of which is to give wide diversification to investments for participating trusts, none of which may invest more than $50,000 in the fund, nor is investment in it available to any investor other than by participation through a trust under administration by Wachovia Bank and Trust company. The fund is currently earning slightly in excess of 3 per cent per annum on amounts invested therein.

"For handling a fund such as you mention, we would apply our charitable fee schedule, which is 5 per cent commission to us on income collections and no charge at any time on principal."

"... just like a letter from home".

PEOPLE who live in Macon County read The Franklin Press and The Highlands Maconian every week, as a matter of course.

But to Macon County folks who are away from home, it's weekly visits are doubly welcome.

"... just like a letter from home", they repeatedly write about The Press.

What about that boy of yours in the service? Does he get The Press? Why not subscribe for him?

And that brother or sister or aunt or uncle who lives in Louisiana or Maine or Texas or California? They'd enjoy the home town paper no end.

A subscription to The Press makes an ideal gift, any time, because no other gift brings a message from home 52 times during the year.
