Westfeldt Was Anonymous Donor To Cancer Fund

Macon County nearly doubled its quota of $300 in last spring's campaign to raise funds for the fight against cancer, but it was revealed only this week that $300 of the approximately $600 raised came from a single individual.

The large donation was made by George G. Westfeldt, a resident of New Orleans, who owns property on the Nantahala river in Macon and Clay counties.

The contribution was made anonymously at the time, but Mr. Westfeldt this week complied with the request of John years separation. Said defendant will take notice that she is required to appear at the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Macon County, North Carolina, within twenty (20) days after the 9th day of October, 1946, and answer or demur to the complaint in said action, or the plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in said complaint.

This 9th day of September, 1946.

FINAL BURIAL OF U. S. DEAD BEING PLANNED

Wishes Of Next Of Kin To Determine Last Resting Place

The program of final burial of American service persons who died overseas during the war is being carried out under the direction of the office of the Quartermaster General, according to an announcement received from the army.

Congress, it is explained, has set a limit of five years in which this work is to be accomplished. While it is probable that it can be completed in less time than that, no definite forecast of the time required can be made, officials said.

No distinction or differences of any kind will be shown because of rank, race, creed or color. No priorities of disposition will be granted, and activities will follow an orderly process beginning with a complete verification of the burial records, at temporary military cemeteries overseas, as well as in field headquarters and the office of the Quartermaster General.

This is not just another job to the army, it was said. The office of the Quartermaster General is responsible for seeing that all service personnel—army, navy, marine and coast guard—are given a proper final burial, and wants to carry out the wishes of the relatives of these service people. This is the primary aim.

Congress has passed, and the President has signed, a bill directing the War department to make arrangements for the return and final burial of the honored dead of World War II. Given Temporary Burial During the war those who died were buried in graves which have since been consolidated into temporary military cemeteries. As the war receded, some of these temporary cemeteries were consolidated into larger resting places. Today, throughout the world, the cemeteries of the armed forces have been beautified and landscaped to provide a proper temporary burial place for these heroes.

The relative concerned will receive a letter of inquiry explaining the program. Inclosed with this letter will be a form. The form will contain four options. The relative concerned will be asked to select one of the four options. These are: To have the remains interred in a permanent United States military cemetery overseas; to have the remains returned to the United States for final burial in a private cemetery; to have the remains returned to the United States for final burial in a national cemetery; to have the remains sent to a foreign country the homeland of the deceased.

A. Johnson, county chairman for the campaign, that Mr. Johnson be permitted to announce the identity of the donor. Mr. Johnson said that the gift was made by Mr. Westfeldt only a short time before the latter's brother died of cancer.

Don't Use DDT Over Corn Fed To Animals

While it is advisable to do everything possible to control pests in stored grain, still no feed or food treated with DDT should be used for any animal. Seed treated with DDT should carry the POISON label.

However, State college entomologists suggest that DDT can be used to advantage, for example, in preventing insect damage to corn used for seed. The crop should be harvested promptly before it becomes infested in the field. Prior to storage, the old grain should be removed from the bins and the walls, ceilings, and floors sprayed with 5 per cent DDT spray at the rate of 1 gallon to each 1,000 square feet. This spray is made by adding four-fifths of a pound of 50 per cent wettable DDT powder to 1 gallon of water.

If the corn is not to be cleaned, graded, and sacked within a week after harvest, the pathologists suggest that 2 ounce of 5 per cent DDT dust be added to each 100 pounds of corn as it goes into storage.

If the corn is to be processed within the week, 1 ounce of the dust may be thoroughly mixed with the seed. The corn should not be handled much after treating because of the dust settling to the bottom of the sack.

"Avoid breathing the DDT dust," say the entomologists. "A respirator is a good investment."

for interment in a private cemetery. Will Pay Transportation Costs When the next of kin requests burial in a national cemetery or in a United States military cemetery overseas, the War department will pay all expenses. If interment in a private cemetery in the United States or overseas is requested, the government will pay transportation costs to the city or town designated and allow up to $50 to cover interment expense, upon application being made to the office of the Quartermaster General.

Remains will arrive in this country at one of two ports: New York or San Francisco. From there, they will be sent to the city or town designated by the next of kin through 15 headquarters designated as distribution points of the American Graves Registration service. Among these offices will be two in the South, Charlotte and Atlanta.

From these distribution points remains will be sent to the places designated by the relative concerned. To accomplish this, 118 specially equipped hospital cars will be used by the Transportation corps. Remains will be forwarded in a flag-draped casket and will be accompanied to their destination by a military escort furnished by the government from among the members of the same military service to which the deceased belonged.

Families To Be Notified
When remains first arrive in the United States, a telegram will be sent direct to the next of kin so that they may have sufficient time in which to make final arrangements for a funeral. There will be ample time, and it is not necessary to make such arrangements now.

Whatever decision is made, it was explained, it will be that of the next of kin, since the War department does not desire to influence any relative to elect any particular one of the four options mentioned. It will be War department policy not to disclose publicly the individual decisions which may be made by the next of kin.

Major General T. B. Larkin, the Quartermaster General, said recently: "The War department believes even though the dead gave their lives for their country, that the individual decisions of next of kin regarding final disposition of remains is a right belonging to the next of kin alone. Information about final burial arrangements should come from the family without War department invasion of their privacy or public display of their sorrow."

The Foundation Seed Producers, Inc., in cooperation with the Crop Improvement association, plans to double the production of corn hybrid seed in 1947. Production was doubled this year.
