Highlands' Indian Summer Has Effect On Leaflet Author

The longest and most nearly perfect Indian summer season High.ands has had in a number of years was threatened last week when temperatures ranged in the low twenties on two mornings, followed by weekend rains.

The autumn weather evidently had its effect on the writer of "Echoes from the Hills", a leaflet put out Saturday by Highlands Electric company. The sentiments expressed by the writer, whoever he or she may be are those of many who will easily agree that "The ageless hills bedecked themselves in a corolful galaxy that no man-made words can picture and became God's most beautiful jewel." Highlanders will also agree with that particular paragraph where the writer goes, on to say: "We do belong to Highlands! Whether we come for a two weeks' visit, whether we spend all of each summer season here, or whether we make Highlands our permanent home, once we breathe its clean, high air, once we feast our souls on the beauty of its everlasting hills, we are never quite free again."

Death Takes

Mrs. G. L. Bell, Highlands' Oldest Summer Resident

The death of Mrs. George L Bell, 91, widow of Judge George L. Bell, which occurred last month at the Peachtree road residence of her son, Judge Clarence Bell, in Atlanta, removes Highlands' oldest summer resident,

Mrs. Bell was the mother of Mrs. H. D. Randall, of Cincinnati and Highlands, and had never missed spending a sum-

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Shuler, who have been residing wich the former's parents since his return from several years' army service, are building a home on Bearpen mountain, which they plan to occupy before Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Iolt have returned home a ter a five weeks' vacation spent in Washington and Ealtimore gain for the Thank 3', ing holidays.

Mrs. Elliot Carl re was ented with a bowl of fruit as i birthday gift by members of the Wednesday card club last week when it met with Mrs. Charles E. Dorris at her home on the Brevard road. The surprise gift was presented by Miss Sara Gilder who led the birthday song. In the two-table game, the high score award went to Miss Gilder, and the traveling prize to Mrs. Wade Sutton.

Friends of Miss Rosalie Howell will be interested to learn that she is much improved after treatment at the Angel hospital in Franklin and at an Atlanta hospital, Mrs. Howell plans to spend the winter in New Orleans, and will be accompanied there by Mrs. G. W. Shennard.
