Benefits May Be Due Survivors Of War Veterans
World War II veterans' survivors who may qualify for social security benefits on the deceased veteran's service record should apply for benefits at once to avoid loss of money. D. W. Lambert, manager of the Asheville office of the Social Security administration, has warned.
Eligible survivors of veterans who died after their discharge from the armed forces and before August 10, 1946, have only until February 10 to file their claims to receive benefits payable back to the time of the veteran's death, Mr. Lambert said.
The 1946 veterans' amendment to the Social Security act provided monthly cash benefits for dependents of ex-servicemen who died or will die, within three years after discharge, leaving their survivors without compensation or pensions from the Veterans administration.
Survivors of ex-servicemen who died before enactment of the amendment on August 10, 1946, were given six months in which to apply for benefits payable back to the date of the veteran's death. That six-month period expires February 10. Social security benefits generally are payable retroactively for a maximum period of three months prior to the time claim is filed.
Benefits may be payable to children under 18 and the widows taking care of them, to widows 65 years of age or older, or, in some cases, to aged dependent parents.

Fishing-Hunting Case To Be Heard By Justice Stamey
An alleged violation of the game laws will come before Justice of the Peace Robert Stamey when he hears the case against Bob Mason, of Bonny Crest, at the courthouse Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.
Mason was arrested on a charge of hunting without a license. He had a gun at the time of the arrest, but told the warden he was looking for fish in the small pools caused by the overflow of the river in that section of town.
The case came before Justice C. A. Setser last Saturday, but was moved to Mr. Stamey's court on motion.

Dairymen Interested In North Carolina
Raleigh. — Several hundred dairymen from outside the state, notably residents of cold-weather states, recently have written the state division of advertising about the possibility of dairy-farming in this state.
While most of them are established in the dairying business already and want to move, a number of them are dairy employes seeking a new opportunity and veterans wanting to return to farming.
Lists of these prospects are available at the advertising division office. The inquiries resulted from a display advertising campaign in agricultural magazines.

Little noticeable spoilage results in trench silo where the silage is covered with a three-inch layer of lime under roofing paper. As the silage is fed, the lime is thrown off on the manure pile to be hauled to the fields, entailing no loss of lime.
