MARTIN GIVEN '18-25 YEARS IN FLATS ROBBERY

In the same case with Mary Lee York, had their cases not prosed. Also not prosed was the prohibition law case of Glenn Crisp. Mrs. Boyd Parker paid the costs for prohibition law violation.

For Driving Drunk
Fines of $50 and the costs, plus 90-day suspended sentences, with their drivers' licenses revoked for 12 months, were imposed on the following defendants for operating motor vehicles intoxicated: Robert Gillespie, Sanford Dills, William T. Fisher, Charles Dean Harris, James Garland Shields, James Ernest Potts, Doyle Painter, Isaac Parrish, Sam Davidson Alexander, Frank Taylor, Leslie Johnson, Carlton Dover Sanders, and Ray Prince.

A similar sentence was imposed on Roy Lee Rogers. Since he is from Georgia, however, the court could not revoke his license; instead, it forbade him to drive in North Carolina for a year.

Nol proses were taken in the cases of M. B. Sanders, Verlon Wiley Shelton, David Duncan Taylor, J. L. Buffington, all charges with operating motor vehicles intoxicated; as well as that of Forrest Hailman, charged in addition with violating the prohibition law; and that of Venus A. Ramsey, charged in addition with reckless driving.

Bond Forfeited
R. E. Thompson's bond was ordered forfeited when he failed to appear for trial. He was charged with operating an automobile intoxicated and with carrying a concealed weapon.

Charged with carrying concealed weapons, Ellis Sanders, George Barnes and George Bikas were fined $50 and the costs, each; Victor Franks was fined $25 and the costs; and the case against Rudolph Smith was not prosed.

John Ledford and Lincoln Webb were fined $25 and the costs for assaults with deadly weapons; William Baty, Jr., paid a fine of $10 and the costs for reckless driving. And Clifton Slagle, also for reckless driving, drew a fine of $10 and the costs.

For an assault, Andrew Angel was fined $25 and the costs. Lloyd Burgess was taxed with the costs for operating a motor vehicle after his license had been revoked.

Will Forfeit Bonds
The defendants in the following cases, having failed to appear, were ordered to show cause why their bonds should not be forfeited:

George W. Guest, reckless driving; Ray Williams, operating motor vehicle intoxicated; Mary Nichols, Ethel Nichols, W. Baker, and Harold Nichols, prohibition law; Glenn Ratcliffe; David Buchanan, prohibition law; C. J. Berry, carrying concealed weapon; J. D. Bell and C. C. King, prohibition law; Earl Robsky, prohibition law; and Ruth E. May Junn, carrying concealed weapon and violating prohibition law.

Capases were ordered issued for the following:

W. R. Teague, false pretense; Frank Childers, abandonment; Sam L. Rockman, abandonment; Guy Robinson, prohibition law; Paul A. Belford, abandonment; Gray Meadows and Wayne Woodard, breaking and entering; William H. Battles, abandonment; Alfreda Roper, abandonment; Grady Watts and Dover Watts, assault and larceny; Robert Justice, abandonment; Clarence Dock Sanders, abandonment; Delas Holland, larceny; Albert Johnson, abandonment.

Nol Prosos were taken by Solicitor Dan K. Moore in the cases of Nelson Hayes, operating a motor vehicle without a license, and Cecil Webb, prohibition law violation.

Will Sift Fort Raleigh Earth To Learn Way Folk Of 'Lost Colony' Lived

By HOKE NORRIS

Manteo, N. C.—The earth of Fort Raleigh is being sifted and studied by the T. S. Park service in an archaeological survey to authenticate the site of the Sir Walter Raleigh settlement and determine the nature of the homes the "Lost Colonists" tried to establish on this rim of the New World in 1587.

The new diggings—the first of a series of projects planned around the Waterside Theatre, where Paul Green's "The Lost Colony" this summer will observe its tenth anniversary—are being made on the south end of earth fortifications thrown up by the colonists in what might have been their unequal fight with unfriendly Indians.

Melvin R. Daniels, of Manteo, vice-chairman of the Roanoke Island Historical association, inaugurated the study by turning up the first spade of dirt in an area designated by J. C. Harrington, regional archaeologist for the Park service.

"Our object in this work," Mr. Harrington told the delegation, "is to authenticate the site of the fortification and determine the nature of the settlement that surrounded them. We want to know where the colonists built their cabins, whether close to the fortifications or rather widely scattered, and something of the fortifications themselves—whether they were earthen breastworks alone, or consisted of a log blockhouse or something of the kind."

In the area of the present study there remains shallow trenches and low grounds, mute evidence of a long-ago struggle for existence in a wild, new country. The outline of the fortifications was marked with stones in 1895 by Talcott Williams, who made a survey of the area for the newly formed Roanoke Colony Memorial association, the predecessor of the Roanoke Island Historical association. These stone markers remain around the monument placed at the site in 1896 to commemorate the birth of Virginia Dare, the first English child born in the New World.

Mr. Williams reported that the trench around the fort averaged 10 inches in depth and the mounds one foot and three inches in height at their crests. He marked each angle of the fortifications with a stone, making a star-like outline. The Roanoke Island Historical association, with WPA assistance, constructed a palisade at the site in 1935, approximating the outline of the trenches and mounds. This, with the stockade near the Virginia Dare monument, has been removed. Mr. Williams' report, under the title "The Surroundings and Site of Raleigh's Colony," was published in the annual report of the American Historical association in 1895.

OUR THANKS

We wish to thank everyone, and especially the many friends at Sylva, for their kindness and help at the time of the death of our sister, Miss Callie Tallent, and for the beautiful flowers.

Funeral Held Sunday At Watauga Church

Funeral services for Mrs. Laura Ward Parker, 87, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. B. Brendle, of Franklin, Route 4, Thursday morning, were held Sunday at the Watauga Baptist church at 11 a. m. The Rev. Frank Reid, of Highlands, and the Rev. Lee Crawford, pastor, officiated, and burial followed in the church cemetery.

Pallbearers were Paul Morgan, Max Sanders, Gene Cassada, Guy Clouse, Robert Scott and Frank Brendle.

Mrs. Parker, the daughter of Anthony B. Ward and Mary C. Sitton, was born February 19, 1860 in the Mills River section of Henderson county. She joined the Methodist church at the age of 14. On December 19, 1894 she married George N. Parker, of Polk county.

Surviving are four children, Mrs. Brendle, with whom she had made her home for the past 15 years; Mrs. S. L. Simmons, of Greenville, S. C.; R. E. Parker, of Williamsburg, Va.; and George A. Parker, of Wildwood, Fla.; 14 grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Potts funeral home was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Miss Tallent

Found Dead; Rites Held At Iotla Church

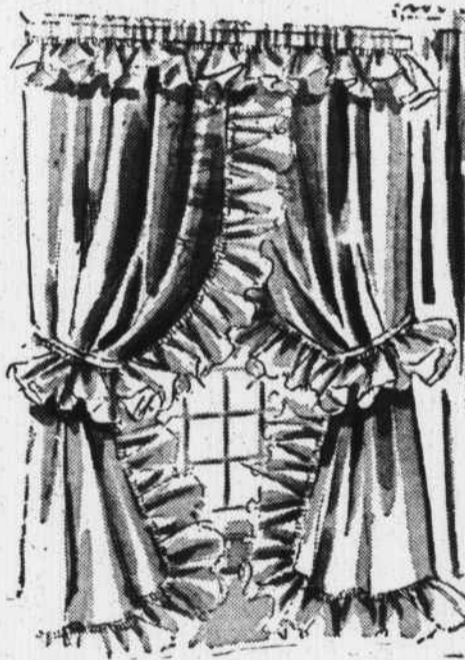

Funeral services were held at the Iotla Baptist church last Saturday at 2 p. m. for Miss Callie Tallent, who last Friday morning was found dead in the bath room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Reese, of Sylva, by whom she was employed as housekeeper. Death was said by Dr. S. H. Nichols to have been due to a heart attack. The Rev. D. P. Grant officiated.

Miss Tallent, the daughter of the late Logan and Amanda Tallent, of Macon County, had lived the past 17 years in Jackson County where she had been employed by Mr. and Mrs. Reese.

She is survived by three brothers, E. L. Tallent, Lee Tallent, and Jess Tallent, all of

Maj. and Mrs. Frank Carmack arrived from Tampa, Fla., the first of this week for the summer. Maj. and Mrs. Carmack, owners and operators of the Franklin Lodge, and Golf Course, are stopping temporarily at Kelly's Inn.

IT'S Spring . . .

Time to fix up that bedroom. Look it over.

Isn't that old bedroom suite about ready for the discard?

Well you don't have to discard it . . . we'll give you a liberal allowance on it in a trade-in on a new suite.

And you really should see the suites we've just received. Most of them four pieces, with a wide variety of patterns and woods to choose from.
