

ASSERTS DAY OF ISOLATION PAST

Judge Patton Speaks To 250 At Memorial Day Exercises

"The day of being an ostrich, the day of isolation is over, and if we are to have peace in the future, we must pursue a policy of fair dealing with our neighbors", Judge George B. Patton told a gathering of about 250 persons at the Highlands Memorial day services, sponsored last Friday by the Legion post there.

The address was the chief feature of the program, paying tribute to those who gave their lives for their country. A short but impressive ceremony was held, with taps being sounded and with a period of silent prayer.

Judge Patton stressed the fact that to live today, America must be made strong. In order to do this, he urged that the individual make himself strong—strong physically, intellectually, and spiritually. He added that he felt the home, the schools, and the church would be of great service in bringing this about.

In closing, he urged members of his audience to stand for something; not against something; and that that something should be democracy. Americans should strive, he said, to show the rest of the world that democracy is the best way of life.
