Radio-Like

Toll Equipment Put In By Phone Firm

A new long distance telephone system, just installed by the Western Carolina Telephone company between Sylva and Cashiers, is the first system of its type put in use in the Southeast, and one of the first in the United States, according to R. E. McKelvey, general manager of the company.

Mr. McKelvey explained that this equipment, known as M-1-A, is similar to radio, but uses wire to carry sound; making it possible to carry on six conversations over two wires. In the past, only one conversation at a time has been possible over two wires.

The company hopes in the future that it will prove possible to serve rural communities with this type of equipment, Mr. McKelvey added.

50 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

There was a wedding in Franklin Thursday. It took place on the corner of the square next to Rev. J. R. Pendergrass store. E. W. Fowler and Vienna Cloer stood up under the locust tree and Rev. Undergrass did the rest. They came to town from opposite directions, but went away together, all one as it were.

We learn that Mr. J. W. Jones, of Atlanta, Ga., an expert in mining, has discovered gold on lands belonging to Col. John Ingram three miles from Highlands. The prospect is very good.

25 YEARS AGO

Word has been received by the family of Mr. Lee Crawford, cashier of the Bank of Franklin, that his son, Gilmer Crawford, has passed all entrance tests and has been admitted as a midshipman at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

On Wednesday, the following directors were elected by the stockholders of the Lake Emory company: Lee Crawford, president; J. S. Trotter, vice-president; E. S. Hunnicutt, secretary; Logan A. Allen, treasurer.

Old Paper Shows Taxes For Mill Shoal Township Totaled $50.67 In 1847

One hundred years ago, $50.67 was the total amount of taxes levied in Millshoal township, according to a tax list, dated 1846, recently found in the old Charley Dowdle home by workmen of the Nolen and Harrison electrical firm.

The collector of these taxes was Henry Brendle, who had been deputized for the job by E. Dowdle, sheriff of the county at that time.

There were 63 persons on the list and the total land valuation amounted to $9,187. Poll tax was 65 cents per person and was paid for four Negroes, besides the whites.

Largest tax payer in the township was Samuel Reed, who paid taxes on 779 acres of land which was valued at $1,005 and poll tax for one Negro.

The smallest sum paid was 1½ cents, by Elrich Keener, who owned 99 acres of land valued at $5.

Among the names listed are many which sound familiar today. Some of these are: John Ammons, Henry Brendle, Logan Berry, John Corbin, William Deal, William Elmore, Joshua Franks, William Holbrooks, Dewey Mashburn, Samuel Roper, John Setser, John Strain, and John Young.

This tax list was found with other documents between the ceiling and the weatherboarding of the Dowdle house when electric wiring was being installed.

Van Raalte's Labor Policy Is Outlined

The methods employed by the Van Raalte company in its management-labor relationships were discussed by T. J. Griffis, the firm's Southern personnel manager, in a talk at Wednesday night's Rotary club meeting.

One of the 10 Van Raalte plants is in East Franklin. The company, he said, uses a series of tests and interviews in an effort to employ persons adapted to the work, and once they are employed, it seeks to keep them contented and happy in their work.

None of the firm's plants is unionized, and Mr. Griffis explained that the Van Raalte company tries to give its employees more than any union could obtain for them.

During her training period, Mr. Griffis said, a worker is paid 40 cents per hour, with a wage incentive offered for increased production. Even during the training period, he added, she may go on a piece work basis if her production shows she would earn more that way.

A trained employee is paid entirely on a piece work basis, and, after a year's experience, he said, the average pay will be $28 or $30 per week, with expert operators earning more than that.

In case it becomes necessary to transfer a worker from one task to another, Mr. Griffis said, she is guaranteed a minimum of 90 per cent of her earnings on the previous task. Provision also is made for pay in case of loss of time due to a machine breakdown.

Among benefits offered employees, he cited the mutual aid associations operated in all Van Raalte plants. The association offers, on a voluntary basis, almost every type of insurance, he explained, 80 per cent of the cost of which is paid by the company. The associations are managed by a board of directors, made up of employees, with a company official serving in an advisory capacity.

DRIVE FOR FLY CONTROL BEGUN

Spraying To Be Resumed When New DDT Supply Is Received

A fly control campaign was begun here last week, when employees of the Town of Franklin began spraying with a DDT solution.

The spraying has been temporarily halted, due to the fact that the small quantity of five per cent DDT spray furnished by the State Board of Health has been exhausted, but the work will be resumed as soon as a shipment, expected momentarily, large enough to complete the project is received.

Six homes and outbuildings and the Penland brothers barn were sprayed before the small supply brought here by State Board of Health officials was used.

M. H. Carpenter, who has been employed by the town to do the spraying, said that as soon as the new shipment arrives he plans to complete the job on Palmer street, then work the residential sections in the following order: Georgia road section, Murphy road and vicinity, Bidwell and adjoining streets, White Oak street and surrounding territory, East Franklin and Bonny Crest, and Wayah street and vicinity. Upon completion of the residential sections, Mr. Carpenter plans then to work in the business section.

The campaign, which is under the joint auspices of the State Board of Health and the town, is free and available to all citizens. It is planned to spray every chicken house, cow stall, barn, and at the rear of all business buildings in Franklin in a drive to eliminate flies.

Health officials say that the spray is harmless to humans and animals, and Mayor T. W. Angel, Jr., has requested the co-operation of all citizens.

PROPOSES UNIT OF NATIONAL GUARD HERE

Col. Hardie Outlines Benefits, Procedure At Lions Meeting

Organization of a national guard unit in Franklin was proposed by Col. David L. Hardie, a survivor of the Bataan death march and a regular army officer assigned to the North Carolina national guard, in an address at Monday night's meeting of the Lions club.

Col. Hardie explained the advantages to be derived by a community from establishment of a guard unit and the procedure to be followed in setting up such a unit.

A company consisting of from 70 to 100 men, he said, would mean a payroll of between $28,000 and $40,000 a year.

To form a unit in Franklin, cooperation between the federal, state and local governments is necessary, according to the speaker. The personnel of the local company would be paid, uniformed, and equipped by the federal government. The responsibility of furnishing an armory, drill ground and of recruiting men is left to the city, county, and state governments. This state contributes $50 per month toward the maintenance of a unit.

Minimum Requirements

Col. Hardie pointed out that the chief responsibility of the town and county would be furnishing a building to serve as an armory. Minimum requirements for such a building are that the building be built of brick or stone, contain a storage room at least 15 by 18 feet with barred windows, a small supply room with lockers and showers and an assembly room for drill purposes. It is also desired that there be a lighted field for drill purposes, but the speaker pointed out that in many cases school gymnasiums and athletic fields are used for drill purposes.

Col. Hardie said that he felt that a community of this size would support a unit of from 70 to 100 men. Such a unit requires an administrative force of one commanding officer, captain in rank, two lieutenants and one company first sergeant and enlisted personnel, and would be made up of men 18 to 35 years in age.

Explains Training Program

Training program for the company would consist of 48 drill periods each year and two weeks summer camp. Regular army pay would be given for time spent in camp, while privates would receive $2.50 and the company commander $5 for each drill period.

One other advantage pointed out by the colonel was that, if the community unit were well established here, there was strong likelihood that the federal government would erect a more permanent building which could be used for many other civic functions.

In order to organize a company, it is necessary for the mayor to appoint a committee who would select officers for the company. These officers would be sent to Raleigh for examination by state national guard officials. Upon their approval, these men would return to the community and enlist at least 30 men and ask that the unit be inspected so that federal funds for the payroll might be authorized.

No action was taken at the meeting, at which the Lions had a number of guests representing other organizations.

In opening his address, Col. Hardie, veteran of two wars, stressed the contributions of the national guard during the last war. He quoted Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commanding officer in charge of the army ground forces, as saying that 18 national guard divisions were in combat during World War 2, and Col. Hardie made the application personal by remarking that existence of the national guard shortened appreciably the 34 months he was in a Japanese prison camp.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Lynch and daughter, Cynthia, of Astoria, Ore., were guests of Mrs. Lynch's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Fouts, of Franklin, Route 3, last week.
