left Tuesday for their usual winter's stay in Carrabelle, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Allen, of Jacksonville Beach, Fla., who were spending a few days at their summer home in Webbmont, were called to Thomasville, Ga., Friday by the death of their brother-in-law, Dr. A. D. H. Little.

W. L. Deacon, of St. Louis, Mo., has returned home after spending a few days here making plans for the erection of a summer home near the Highlands Country club. Mr. Deacon and his son made the trip by private plane, landing at Franklin.

Mrs. Allison Thornwell entertained last week with an autumn houseparty at her cottage on the Country club grounds. Among her guests were Mrs. Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., Mrs. Jackson Dick and Mrs. William Cram, Jr., all of Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Burt, Jr., and their two children, George and Nannette, left this week to spend the winter in Sarasota, Fla.

Mrs. Nash Broyles, of Atlanta, was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Potts, Miss Peggy Potts and Miss Caroline Hall, coming up for the Hall-Orr wedding Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Anderson had as their week-end guests Mr. and Mrs. Jack M. Hall and daughter, Joanna, of Atlanta for the Hall-Orr wedding.

Miss Marna Cobb, student at Fassfern school, Hendersonville, spent the week-end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cobb, and had as her guests two classmates, the Misses Margaret Yarbrough and Betty Arnold, of Miami, Fla.

Giant Pine Picks
Lone Open Space As
It Falls In Storm

During last week's rainstorm a giant white pine, that had long shaded two north Fourth street homes and an adjoining Chestnut street home, gently snapped its bole and eased itself down in the one and only very limited space to leave the three residences unharmed, accomplishing a feat its owner had thought well-nigh impossible when he had several times contemplated felling it. Had the tree fallen in any other direction, it inevitably would have crashed more than one roof.

MRS. EVA G. CLEAVELAND HAS QUILTING, LUNCHEON
Miss Eva G. Cleaveland entertained Tuesday with a quilting bee and luncheon at her home on North Fourth street. Those enjoying Miss Cleaveland's hospitality were Mrs. Edna Keener, Mrs. H. P. P. Thompson, Mrs. Henry West of Franklin, Mrs. W. A. Hays, and small son, Arthur, Mrs. Wendell Cleaveland and son, Johnny, Mrs. Carlton Cleaveland, and son, Ellis, and Mrs. George Cleaveland and daughters.

Dr. Arthur Little Dies; Funeral Held At Thomasville, Ga.

Funeral services were held Sunday in Thomasville, Ga., for Dr. Arthur D. Little, who died suddenly early Friday morning in that city. Dr. and Mrs. Little had been summer home owners in the Webbmont section of Highlands for many years. Survivors include the widow, two sons and one daughter.

Work Under Way On Second Annex At Country Club

A second annex, consisting of a two-story building with eight bedrooms and eight baths, is under construction at the Highlands Country club and be ready for use next season.

Auto Drivers Slow To Seek Drivers' Exams

Col. L. C. Rosser, commissioner of motor vehicles, says that of the estimated 165,000 drivers whose surnames begin with A or B, only about 40,000, or less than 25 per cent, have reported for their drivers' license re-examinations. He added that if the present slow rate of reporting continues, a great many North Carolina drivers whose names begin with A or B will be guilty of misdemeanor if they are caught driving on an old license after January 1.

Connecticut travel officials figure that for every dollar spent in tourist promotion, the state harvested $200 from visitors.

1,200 Pounds Of Crimson Clover Sown

Approximately 1,200 pounds of crimson clover have been sown on corn land in Macon County, according to reports the farmers have submitted to the AAA office here.

A payment of 17 cents per pound for this crimson clover is made to the farmers by the AAA, provided a sales slip showing the purchase is given the AAA office.

In addition to the seed purchased outright by the farmers this year, the AAA has distributed 32,475 pounds of Austrian winter peas and 20,000 pounds of ryegrass. The winter peas are a superior soil-building winter legume that thrives well in this mountain climate, while the ryegrass is an annual that furnishes valuable winter grazing and also a green crop for turning next spring, AAA officials pointed out.

CHICKENS NEED LOTS OF WATER

Failure To Provide It Proves Costly, Says College Specialist

If chickens could talk, no doubt many of them on North Carolina farms would sound the cry for more water, says Roy S. Dearstyne, head of the poultry department at State college.

North Carolina poultrymen are losing money every day, Mr. Dearstyne said, simply because legumes sown this fall, the AAA office also furnishes superphosphate in adequate amounts to each farmer requesting this material. The local office has distributed through the Franklin merchants a total of 10,639 bags of superphosphate so far this year.

they do not pay enough attention to the water requirements of their laying flocks. Since poultry drink only a limited amount of water at one time, it is necessary that the supply be checked many times a day if the bird is to obtain an adequate amount of water to meet body demand.

Approximately 60 per cent of the chicken's body is made up of water and water comprises about two-thirds of the egg. Mr. Dearstyne said; therefore, the constant demand of the body must be met if the hen is to live and perform properly.

At least two 3-gallon water containers should be used for each hundred layers in case automatic waterers are not available, he said. For good sanitation, these waterers should be elevated so that the litter cannot be scratched into them and so protected that the chickens cannot perch on them. It is well to clean waterers, regardless of type, once a day and disinfect them once a week, he added.

Taking the chill out of drinking water during winter is also a good practice, he said, as this leads to a more liberal drinking of the water by the chickens.

Sugar production in the United States and principal areas supplying this country totaled over 10.5 million tons for the 1946-47 crop year.
