MRS. H. G. STORY

MISS PARRY BECOMES BRIDE OF N. Y. MAN

Miss Jeanne Marie Parry became the bride of Donald David Burr in a ceremony performed at "Parrymont", summer home of the bride's parents, on Little Yellow Mountain here, Saturday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Parry, of Miami, Fla., and Highlands. Mr. Burr is the son of Mrs. Beate Burr, of New York City.

The Rev. John B. Davidson, pastor of the Highlands Presbyterian church, officiated.

The home was decorated with white dogwood, laurel and rhododendron. The organ music preceding the ceremony included "At Dawning", "Traumerel" and "Lullaby". The vows were spoken at an improvised altar before a picture window overlooking Blue Valley in the Smokies. Flanking the altar were five-branched candelabra with white tapers, white spiraea and white gladiolus.

Wayne Elliot Dorman served as best man, and Miss Emily Hector of Miami and Highlands kept the bride's book.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white eyelet tulle over white satin, made with fitted bodice, portrait neckline, and long pointed sleeves bound with white satin, the full gathered skirt ending in a cathedral train. She wore a coronet of starched eyelet to match the gown, and her finger-tip veil was appliqued with white eyelet flowers. She carried a shower bouquet of white orchids, dianthus and lilies-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Wayne Elliot Dorman, the bride's former roommate at the University of North Carolina, was matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a gown of ice blue taffeta made similar to the bride's gown, and carried a cascade bouquet of pink begonias and dianthus.

Mrs. Parry, mother of the bride, wore a floor length dress of mint green crepe Romaine with a corsage of purple orchids. Mrs. Burr, the bridegroom's mother, wore a dress of sapphire blue lace and a purple orchid corsage.

Present at the ceremony and the reception which followed at 6 o'clock at the bride's home, were members of the family and a few close friends of the bride and bridegroom. Ivy and candles decorated the bride's table, which was overlaid with a pale green linen damask cloth and centered with the bridal cake.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Burr left by motor on a wedding trip to Grove Park Inn, Asheville, and from there will go on to New York, where they will reside on Long Island. For traveling the bride wore a green and black pure shear wool dress, with green accessories and a corsage of white orchids. A wool jacket

Miss Bell

Awarded Scholarship At Laboratory

Miss Emily Bell, of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., Wesleyan college "Girl of the Year" and honor student in biology, has been awarded one of the research scholarships at the Highlands Biological laboratory for this summer.

Miss Bell will be graduated with honors at Wesleyan college May 31, and will enter the Graduate School of Vanderbilt university in September to continue her training in biology. At the laboratory here, she will conduct experiments on the fragility of the amphibian red blood cell, under the direction of Dr. Thelma Howell.

Scouts are invited to be present at the meeting, it was emphasized.

VOTE FOR JAMES B. VOGLER State Treasurer

Every year in North Carolina approximately 80,000,000 square feet of timber is burned through human carelessness. This would furnish enough lumber to build 4,000 five room houses every year.
