Double the board to save time and labor: A wide board to fit on top of the regular ironing board of standard size for ironing linens, draperies, men's shirts, and other large pieces, will save many lifts of the iron and shifts of clothes during ironing. Use board that can be put on or off the standard board as needed.

A width of 20 inches is suggested for this board. In an ironing study made by New York specialists, it was found that this was as wide as any of the women in the study could reach at their preferred ironing height without bending forward. For comfortable, effi-ganized artificial breeding associations in the state, with a total membership in excess of 2,500, and it is estimated that more than 20,000 cows will be bred under the program this year.

Reports show that in January and February 2,258 cows were bred by 21 associations. Two associations began operating in March; all others except those in Forsyth, Yadkin, and Davie counties began in January.

Despite the fact that most of the technicians are new, reports as of April 1 indicate that the non-return percentage by technicians on January 1 services will average around 44 per cent.

which is considered a fairly good figure with so many new men on the job. Reports already indicate improvement in the percentage for February 1 services.
