FIGURES GIVEN ON LUNCHROOM AT HIGHLANDS

Children's Lunch Fees Actually Paid Only For Groceries

Children who bought lunches at the Highlands school lunchroom during the past school year actually paid only for the groceries used in preparing the meals, O. F. Summer, principal, pointed out this week in making public figures on the lunchroom's operation.

Federal funds, plus local contributions, more than equaled the amount spent for labor, electric current, and lunchroom supplies, Mr. Summer explained, so that the children's lunch fees actually went for food only.

The lunchroom was operated 172 days, during which an average of 82 children were served the complete lunch daily, and an average of 45 per day bought milk only. Some of the lunches served were given to the children without cost, and four students earned their lunches by working in the lunchroom. Citrus and tomato juices, received from the U. S. Department of Agriculture without cost to tending the 194th district assembly of Rotary International, when incoming presidents and secretaries of the various clubs in the district were acquainted with their official responsibilities and duties.

One of the highlights of the two-day meeting was the report on the Rotary convention held recently in Rio.

Mr. Cook will be installed as president of the Highlands club early in July, succeeding W. H. Cobb, retiring president.
