Garden Tour Visits Four Fine Homes

Last Friday 10 automobiles, carrying the participants in the season's first Highlands garden tour, left Highlands inn at 2:15 p. m. and crept up the mountain road past Sunrise Rocks to the Ravenel home on Wolf Ridge, the first stop on the tour.

After enjoying the sunlit view of Horse cove and Whiteside mountain from the beautiful Ravenel garden, the guests entered the house to be greeted by the Misses Ravenel.

The next hostess to welcome the tour was Mrs. G. K. Yetter, on the Highlands-Walhalla road. There the guests were treated to another fine view over Blue Valley, and then enjoyed studying the architecture of the home, a modern house well adapted to a mountain setting.

In striking contrast was the Swiss chalet of Mrs. Clark Howell, set in the midst of the garden, just now a riot of color. The visitors were impressed with the interior of the house, and remarked on the stone barn with its single inhabitant, the goat.

The Sloan gardens, overlooked by the beautiful villa, were at their best.

The season's second tour, to four or more Highlands homes and gardens, will be held August 20.
