Here's Plan To Cut Barn Fire Losses

A four-point program to save barns from destruction by fire during November is suggested by the State College Extension service.

Records of the Fire Protection Institute show that approximately 1,500 barns in the United States were either damaged or destroyed by fire in November, 1947, it was pointed out. Losses are unusually heavy during fall and winter months because so many harvest crops and so much valuable farm machinery are stored in barns at that season of the year.

"If farmers will take a few simple precautions and install approved fire extinguishers, barns in this county will be comparatively safe from fire during the winter months," the extension service said.

Barn losses from fire, it was added, can be reduced 80 to 90 per cent through the following program:

1. Keep barns clean. Make sure rubbish is not allowed to accumulate in or around buildings.
2. Check all electrical wiring. See that switches operate properly and no wiring has been stripped of its insulation.
3. Have adequate fire protection. Most fires start small. If approved fire extinguishers are handy, fires can be put out quickly, before they get out of control.
4. Store flammable liquids in safe areas. Make certain that flammable liquid is placed in sealed containers and out of reach of children and animals.

Circular No. 325, "Control Stored Grain Insects."

The circular, prepared by James T. Conner, Jr., in charge of extension entomology, is considered particularly timely because of the bumper corn crop which farmers in the state are harvesting this fall.

Several species of insects are responsible for damage to stored grain, Mr. Conner says. Fortunately, he adds, the same treatment, if properly employed, will control all of them.

The entomologist recommends first that old grain in the crib be cleaned up by means of fumigation, or that it be removed from bins where the new crop will be stored. Then, as soon as the new grain is put into this clean storage, it should be fumigated.

A number of chemicals may be used. From the standpoint of the farmer, says Mr. Conner, the most practical fumigant is either a mixture of three parts ethylene dichloride and one part carbon disulfide and carbon tetrachloride, or a mixture of one part carbon disulfide and four parts carbon tetrachloride. The dosage will vary according to temperature and tightness of the bin.

Further details are given in the new circular, copies of which may be obtained free from the local county agent or by writing to the Agricultural Editor, State College Station, Raleigh, N. C.
