Shrine Of Masons, On Smoky Peak, To Be Opened In 1972

A dirt road from Waynesville leads up to the top of the Smokies at Black Camp Gap, and here the visitor will find a stone marker, erected by the Masonic order.

The cryptic shrine and marker contains stone from almost every country in the world, from a mine 2,500 feet below sea level in Australia, and from every state in the Union. In a vault nearby is a sealed copper box containing mementoes from 30 grand lodges in this country and Canada. It will be opened in 1972, 100th anniversary of the founding of the N. C. Grand Council.

In the marker are stones from Seera Island, Arabia, where King Solomon is said to have conferred with the Queen of Sheba; a portion of a stone gateway from the castle of Robert the Bruce of Scotland; and part of a foundation stone from the Masonic Temple at Copenhagen.

frio and sop, Ralph, and Miss Anniewill Siler, all of New York City, and Miss Freda Siler, of Washington, D. C., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Siler.

Miss Annelynn Jones, of Tampa, Fla., is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Guy L. Houk.

Mrs. A. L. Hudson, of Demorest, Ga., is visiting Mrs. John Henry.

Mrs. Alvin Dodd and children, of Marietta, Ga., are visiting relatives here. Mrs. Dodd is the former Miss Josephine Higdon.

Bobbie and Pat Gaines, children of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. (Bob) Gaines, are spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. Comer Vandiver in Helen, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Monroe, of Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. S. F. Ledford, of Dillard, Ga., were guests last week of Mrs. Frank Higdon, Sr.

Miss Carolyn Dowdle is visiting her aunt, Mrs. William Willis, in Columbia, S. C.

Misses Pauline and Margaret Sue May have returned to their home on Otter Creek after spending the past week at Joy Camp, Greenback, Tenn.

NOT EASY

Whoever coined that phrase "easy as taking candy from a baby" never tried it.

State College Hints To Farm Homemakers

Tumblers and other glassware get extra heavy use in summer when the family enjoys cool drinks and chilled desserts. To bring glassware through without casualties, household equipment specialists offer some reminders.

Sudden changes in temperature are responsible for the untimely end of much glassware. Glass expands with heat, contracts with cold, often cracks or breaks when forced to do either too suddenly. This is why hot water should not be poured over glass in washing or rinsing but instead the glass should be laid gently in the water. It is also why glass should not go directly from refrigerator to warm dishwasher and why jars of food, hot from the canner, should not stand in a breeze to cool. In making iced tea or coffee in glass pour the hot beverage slowly onto the ice rather than against the glass, or — safer make the beverage in a china or pottery pitcher and then pour into glasses. Incidentally, ice cubes should not be dropped carelessly into glasses. The force of their fall may crack the glass.

To save glass from taking a rap in dishwashing, there are circular rubber gadgets which fit over the end of faucets, also rubber mats for bottom of sink or dishpan, or for counters on either side of the sink. Many women like rubber-covered dish-drainers.

The time-honored dishwashing rule: "Glass first, silver second, china third," saves nicks, chips and scratches which often result from a miscellaneous jumble in the dishpan. Glass gets first place because it needs clean suds with no trace of grease to come out clear and shining.

The less glass is handled, the less chance of breaking. Many women are finding that by washing with the new detergents glass will come out streakless without wiping.

Last but not least, save glassware with convenient safe storage arrangements. Narrow shelves for tumblers allow each to stand separately with no stacking or doubling up, and no reaching behind.

SMITHBRIDGE'S EARLY HISTORY

soldiers put their dead comrades under their horses' feet and drove over them to keep the Indians from scalping them. The Otto post office was established on June 30, 1882 by Isaac Terrell Bradley, father of Mrs. Limer. His co-worker was a Mr. Love of Franklin. Mr. Bradley expressed the wish that the village and office bear the name Otto, and Mr. Love liked the name so well he gave the name Otto to a son. Mr. Bradley became the first postmaster. The kindness and neighborliness of the early settlers are characteristic of the present inhabitants. One story is related about Little Sallie Smith who lived in the Mulberry area. She became lost, one day, and people from every section hunted for her day and night. After long, weary hours, she was found, and she told how the dogs had come to her, but when she saw lights in the distance, she became alarmed and fled still farther into the hills. After this experience, she had to be kept under watchful care for a long period of time, but she finally overcame the emotional strain.

Many interesting keepsakes can be found in the possession of many of the descendants of these early settlers. Indian relics, documents and diaries are in the possession of Mrs. Limer and Mrs. Ada Hyatt. Mrs. Limer holds a tax receipt which belonged to her grandfather. He paid fifteen cents tax on a large territory of land in this township.

We visited Indian graves on top of one of the highest hills and the heavy stones covering these graves have never been found nearer than ten miles away on the Tesenta road.
