Collection On Exhibit In Atlanta

An exhibit of photographs by E. S. Purdom, of the Wayah road, is being shown during August at the High Museum of Art in Atlanta, and has proved one of the most popular features at the museum, according to a news story in The Atlanta Constitution. The pictures, made during many years of following photography as a hobby, depict the Southern Highlands and the region's people and crafts. Mr. Purdom's collection of photographs previously has been exhibited at the Miami annual showing of the Florida Photographic society, at the annual photographic salons at St. Petersburg and Jacksonville, Fla., and at the Art Institute in Chicago. He attended the recent DeHart family reunion in Bryson City. Floyd Cardon, of Sylva, spent Sunday here with his mother, Mrs. Nancy Cardon.

MYF Goes On Hike, Then Holds Service

A group of 25 members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Highlands Methodist church met at the parsonage Sunday afternoon and motored to the end of the road up Satalah mountain, where they enjoyed hikes and seeing points of interest, sang songs and had refreshments, ending the outing with a devotional program. Outings of this nature have been enjoyed every other week by the group. On alternate Sundays the Fellowship has held regular meetings in the church at 6:30 in the evening. Nearly 1,000,000 housing units were turned out in 1948.
