DAIRY GROUP

Will Push Artificial Breeding Program
In County

By S. W. MENDENHALL
(County Agent)

A meeting of the board of directors of the Macon County Artificial Breeders association was held in the Agricultural building Wednesday afternoon of last week.

Farmers who are using the artificial breeding service are well pleased with results obtained. Ned Teague and the other directors are anxious for more farmers who have one or more milk cows to take advantage of this service. Mr. Teague says that it is not an expense, but an investment in better dairy cattle, so badly needed in this county and throughout the South. The board adopted a production plan in an effort to help more farmers understand the importance of this program to them and to Macon County. The recommendations of the directors were taken into a meeting of the Macon County Milk Producers association at 7:30 p. m., the same day. These dairymen approved these recommendations and assured their cooperation in promoting the breeding program. They went a big step farther than this. A realization of the need of better herd management to improve feeding methods, culling and cost of production is necessary.

ord probably will be frozen until sometime in March. However, men with prior service are eligible for immediate enlistment, he said.
