OPERATION RESTOCKING—On Wildlife Management day, March 21, a group of Franklin Future Farmers of America dropped out to the trout rearing pools at Arrowood glade to give a hand with restocking Wayah creek with some 300 rainbows, all eight inches. In the photograph, Reed Queen, in charge of the pools, nets a mess of trout in preparation for weighing. The F. F. A. boys stand by with buckets to transfer the fish to a nearby truck. Watching the operation are Charlie Sutton, G. I. farm supervisor, and Bryan Setser, Wayah refuge assistant. Incidentally, trout season opens April 15!
