SGT. HOMER CRAWFORD MARRIES IN GERMANY

Miss Lillian Evelyn White, of the U. S. Air Force, became the bride of S. Sgt. Homer Carl Crawford, son of Mrs. H. C. Crawford, of Franklin, Route 2, in Weisbaden, Germany on April 24.

The bride, an airman third class, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. White, of San Jose, Calif., and a graduate of Rogue River High school in Oregon. Sgt. Crawford attended Franklin High school.

to spend the summer in Franklin.

Mrs. C. C. Daniels and her daughter, Miss Hope Daniels, of New York, arrived Sunday to spend the summer at their Franklin home, "Dixie Hall".

Mrs. H. S. Kinnebrew, Sr., of Birmingham, Ala., is here for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Phil McColium, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gravelly and daughter, Jane, of Lenoir, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Starrette.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Jones, of New York City, are spending a fortnight at Wayah Valley ranch, preparing to build a home in Wayah valley. Mr. Jones is a member of the mechanical staff of the New York Herald-Tribune.

Mrs. Max Grist and children have joined Dr. Grist in Canton, Ga., where he is in business.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rickman, of Franklin, Route 4, visited relatives in Elm City and Winston-Salem last week. While in Elm City they attended graduation of their nephew, J. C. Winstead.

Mrs. James R. Holbrooks, of Franklin, Route 4, has returned to her home after visiting her daughters and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Burrell, Mr. and Mrs. John Davis, and Miss Eddis Hoolbrook, in Winston-Salem for the past three weeks.

This Week With Macon County Agents

By Mrs. Florence S. Sherrill

Mrs. Helen Kitrell, librarian at Fontana Regional library, requested that the book, "Strange Lands and Friendly People", be reviewed in all the home demonstration clubs. Mrs. Ralph West, education leader of the Cowee club, is given the agents' column this week for her book report.

"Strange Lands and Friendly People" was written by William J. Douglas, who has been a Justice of the Supreme Court of the U. S. since 1930.

"Realizing some of the facts which the American people must face in dealing with the people of the East and Middle East, the supreme court justice was determined to become better acquainted with these people. In the summers of 1949 and 1950, Mr. Douglas traveled and lived among the tribesmen of Persia (Iran), the peasants of Syria and Lebanon, and the leaders and plain people of Israel. He also visited Iraq, Jordan, Greece, Cyprus, and New India. He hunted, ate, and lived in the homes of men of high rank as well as ones of poverty.

"With a deep understanding of religious economics and national facts, Justice Douglas pictures the people to the south of the Soviet empire. He shows how the United States is losing by default to Soviet propaganda. Mr. Douglas believes the people are caught between the opposing, but almost equally, black shadows of reactionary landlordism and communism. They are without exception, restive, dangerous people with a legitimate anger. In their bewilderment, Mr. Douglas sees these people demanding the attention of the American people and they will not be denied.

"Democracy, as Americans know it, will take generations to develop in Asia. Mr. Douglas tells his reader that the American way has not been perfected, that democracy cannot be imposed from without or from above, but must come from within as a result of education and experience. In their struggle the people of Asia want the good things of life, but they also want freedom and justice. Communism does not offer the standard of life that the western world knows. Mr. Douglas reminds his reader. He states, 'Freedom and justice are indeed our mission in life. If we forget that we will never receive the verdict of civilization.'

MAKIN' MACON Sports Rounds

By J. F. BRADY

Catch that rhythm—the humming of reels, the off-key "plop" of plugs, and the zing-zing of clobbered golf balls—its music, friends, music. And when its blended with a certain combination of versatile exponents it's the Macon sports world symphony for the week.

So, pull up a stump and relax while the old maestro conducts a couple of numbers.

Nantahala lake is coughing up bass like Washington is mink coats and a number of local anglers registered some good catches over there this past week. Not to be outdone, the ladies too, have taken to rod and reel.

Mrs. J. R. Ray gave some lizards swimming lessons over on Nantahala lake and in return was rewarded with three bass that pushed the little red needle on the scale around to the four pound mark. From rudder to bow, one was 21 inches, one 16 inches, and the third 12 inches.

And speaking of a "muskie"! A 20 and a half pounder was hauled out of the little Tennessee river Sunday by Bobby Holbrook. This monster, believed to be the largest one caught around here this year, was 42 inches long. Zeb Angel bought it and has it on ice if anyone wants to see it.

That is the kind of fishing we like to hear about. So, when you haul in a breath-taker, how's for dropping by The Press office and pounding our ear with the story of how the fish was caught, where, and what kind of bait was used.

A common, but not too serious spring illness is sweeping the area in and around Franklin. Some folks call it Golf Fever, and its symptoms are many.

Pity the poor wife who has to listen day in and day out to the constant grumbings of the lowly golfer who had the misfortune to flub (a perfectly acceptable word meaning to mess up) a shot and turn a beautiful, gleaming white golf ball into a smiling, toothless, hunk of rubber. With the inflationary price of golf balls, clubbering a new golf ball with the sharp side of a club is like torching your cigarettes with dollar bills.

Pity the poor spouse who has to keep warming her golfer husband's supper over every night waiting for darkness to drive him home for nourishment. And pity the poor better-half who, after keeping supper warm for three hours, must listen to her haranguing "tee-tapper" beef about his steak (did we say steak?) tasting like a pair of last year's hunting boots.

But envy the wife who faces a husband who has just broken a hundred on the local links, has lost or cut no golf balls, and among other things, has separated some of the boys from negotiable currency. Never, mind you, never will you find a kinder, wittier, more understanding, attentive, and brilliant individual in the world. This character, fairly wolfs a piece of meat, that the day before would have tasted like a "World War II combat boot" and his wife's "dishwater" coffee has the taste and aroma of champagne.

That, my friends, is this game called golf. We speak from experience.

While we're lauding the links, we'd better take the time and remind you sometime golfers that the Jaycees here are planning to stage a golf tourney about the middle of the summer with loving cups and plenty of prizes. With this advance notice, you'll have plenty of time to bid your wife or girl friend good bye for the season and retire to the local nine for a little practice. Don't say you weren't warned. Just turn out and let's make this tourney an annual event.

Did anyone play Ben Hogan Saturday, and if you did, did you beat him?

We wrap this deal up this week with a golf story related by George R. (Putterless) McSweeney, who won the golf tourney here last year.

Seems that a duffer, and we strongly suspect that it was "Putterless" himself, became so rotten in his golf game that the only time he was on the fairway was to cross over in the rough to look for his ball.

Then one day this club duffer suddenly caught fire and began touring the course with sub-par scores. Amazed, his friends clamored about trying to find out what was behind this miraculous bit of golfing from a gent who previously had to take three shots to get his ball out of his golf bag.

"Simple," explained the duffer, "Up to now I just haven't had my heart in it."

"I have now tho," he said, pointing to his golf ball.

A picture of his mother-in-law was painted on it!

For success in canning low-acid vegetables and meats, you need to have your pressure canner in good working order. Two important points to check before each canning session are: First, test the canner to see that no steam, or very little, leaks out where cover and kettle join. If too much leaks out, you may not be able to maintain the pressure needed and the canner may boil dry and be ruined. Second, check the dial face gauge to find out if it accurately registers the pressure inside the canner. If the gauge is five pounds or more off, you need a new one.

To prevent food spoilage, not only must jars be sealed airtight but in addition the whole canning process must be conducted under the most sanitary conditions. Cleanliness is absolutely essential. All jars and their tops should be washed in hot, soapy water, rinsed with hot water, and turned upside down on a clean towel or kept in hot water until it is time to fill them.

Care must be taken to avoid scalds and burns when canning. Handle hot jars with dry towels; use holders when handling hot kettles; avoid spilling or splashing hot water, hot food, and hot liquids in general; turn handles of cooking utensils away from the edges of the stove so that persons passing by will not strike them; don't reach over steaming kettles. When using the water-bath method, be sure to lower the jars very carefully into the boiling water to avoid breakage. Be equally careful when lifting the trayholder out of the bath to avoid splattering and splashing hot water and being burned.

The Albritton strawberry variety, developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the North Carolina Experiment station and released to growers in December, 1951, showed up well in its performance this season, according to horticultural specialists at State college.

State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

Q. What is fire blight, and how can it be controlled?

A. Fire blight is a bacterial disease that often appears suddenly on shoots and blooms of apple and pear trees soon after bloom. It blights blooms, spurs, and twigs, results in cankers on branches and trunks, reduces set of fruit, and kills spurs, branches, and even trees. It is very widespread and severe in North Carolina this year.

A simple, practical, and fully effective control measure for fire blight has not been developed. Once the infection starts, there is no way to control it. On a long-term basis, however, the following practices will aid in control:

Eliminate hold-over cankers. Cut off branches with cankers during winter, and rub off all water-sprouts during spring and summer.

Use best orchard practices to keep trees from being over-stimulated to too rapid and vigorous growth, particularly during and just after the bloom period.

Avoid planting varieties of pears and apples that are extremely susceptible to fire blight.

Remove scattered bloom clusters on young trees before they open.

If seen early in their development, break off blighted shoots six to eight inches below any sign of discoloration of the bark.

Blossom blight infection has been reported to be reduced considerably by an annual practice of spraying during bloom with a weak Bordeaux mixture, 2-4-100 (made with two pounds copper sulfate and four pounds hydrated lime in 100 gallons water). Perfect control of blight should not be expected from bloom spraying because it is impossible to cover with the spray all the parts of the blooms and shoots that develop during rainy periods when blight infection can take place.

The rabbiteye type of blueberry is recommended for home use.

New sensational Pee Gee MASTIC HOUSE PAINT Stays Brilliant-White twice as long as ordinary paints

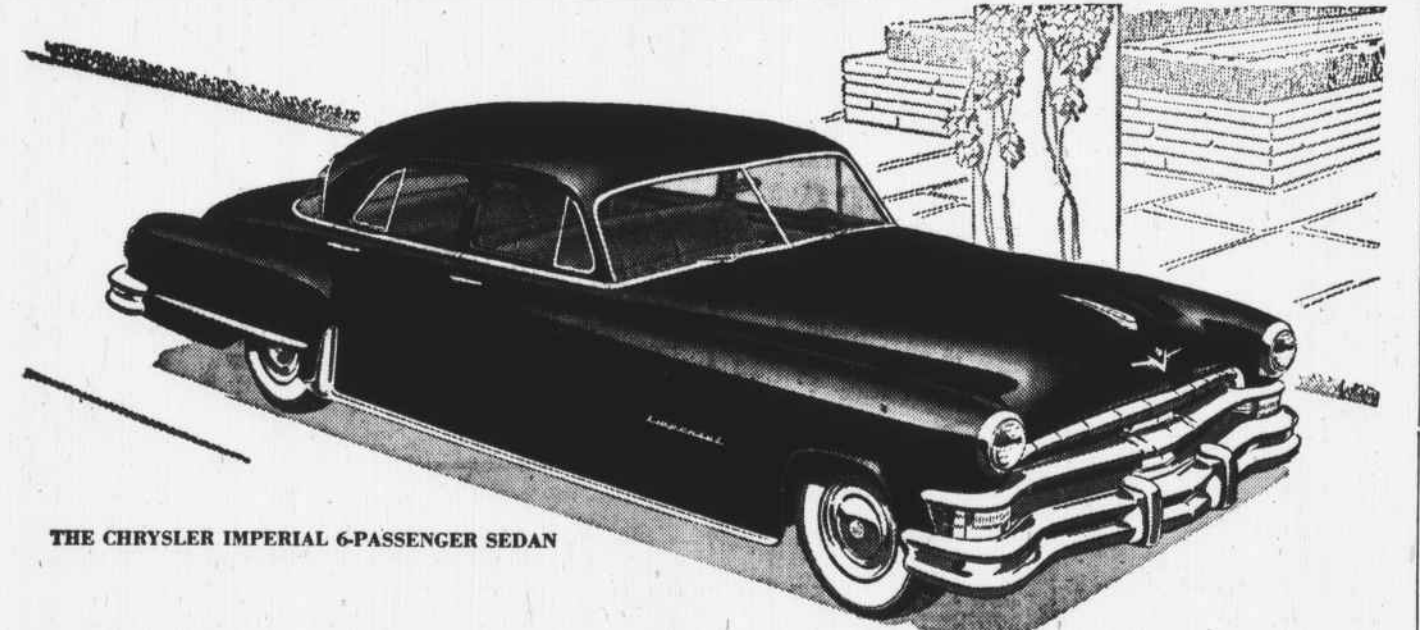

● If you have new wood of any type to paint... or if you want to paint your house any color, it will pay you to look into MASTIC. You see—MASTIC gives you 2 BIG IMPROVEMENTS over the conventional three-coat system.

- 1) You need only 2 coats of MASTIC to do the job—meaning you save up to 1/2 in labor and paint.
- 2) And with MASTIC you know your house will look NEW & BRIGHT twice as long!

The secret is MASTIC'S two coats. In reality they are two different paints; do two different jobs. The undercoat seals wood pores in new wood, keeps the oil in the topcoat on the surface where it belongs. MASTIC maintains resiliency... outlasts ordinary paints twice as long!

Come in and we'll be glad to tell you the names of local paint contractors who use MASTIC HOUSE PAINT exclusively for best results. Wide color choice.

YOU'LL FIND IT EVEN BETTER THAN YOU'VE HEARD!!

It's been many years since a new car has caused as much talk as today's Chrysler Imperial has. What you may not realize is how long it's been since a car gave so many reasons for excited talk as this one.

May we invite you to drive and test the best and most worth-owning engine on the road today? (Chrysler's magnificent new 180 H.P. FirePower V-8.)

May we invite you to handle the easiest and safest steering wheel in existence at the moment? (Chrysler's full-time Power Steering.)

May we invite you to try out brakes which require as little as one-third the usual foot-pressure, and still stop you in many feet less than other cars do? (Chrysler Power Brakes.)

May we invite you to sit on the most comfortable seat cushions, and enjoy the fullest window vision you can find? May we invite you to ride on the rough-road miracle of the Oriflow shock absorbers which only Chrysler-built cars have?

May we invite you to drive a Chrysler Imperial... and learn how much you'd miss, and deeply regret, if you bought another car today without knowing this one first?

We... and Imperial by Chrysler... are at your service, any time.
